CUFA fires 4 in payroll padding probe

By CARRIE YOUNG
Special to ANP

Jean Conyers, executive director of Communities United For Action Inc. (CUFA), and three other high-ranking employees of that agency, were fired this week on charges of payroll padding. The foursome allegedly netted an estimated $45,000.

The suspensions, and the eventual firing of Mrs. Conyers, fiscal officer Henrietta Luckie, head bookkeeper Isaac Lewis and program planner Sheila Frederick, followed FBI agents seizure of fiscal records located at CUFA's main office in Taylor.

Deputy Director August Augustine was appointed as acting executive director.

Associated Newspapers had investigated CUFA, a non-profit government agency servicing the poor and disadvantaged, learning of widespread fiscal and program mismanagement within that agency.

CUFA, which services the 42 out-Wayne County communities, including Inkster, Westland, Wayne, Canton Township and Romulus, has been in existence nearly 10 years. The agency is chartered to aid the poor in paying delinquent utility bills, weatherizing homes, family planning, and assisting in minor home repairs and homecare services for senior citizens, among other objectives.

During ANP's 3-month investigation, it learned that since the agency's doors opened in 1972 thousands of dollars each fiscal year, were "unaccounted for, expenditures questioned and federal funds co-mingled with state funds," to the point of rendering the agency "unauditable," according to independent auditors of CUFA.

It also was learned that programs reported by CUFA officials to have aided persons in CUFA's service areas over the past three years, actually were not serviced, although the money was reported to have been spent.

While FBI agents report that the four fired employees could face indictments by a federal grand jury in mid-February with a maximum fine of $10,000, a 5-year imprisonment, or both, if found guilty of the payroll padding charges, some CUFA board members, however, believe CUFA's problems are not confined to actions of those employees.

"The hunk of money we originally thought they stole far exceeds $45,000, and it certainly is not confined to those four people," one board member said.

CUFA board members told ANP that with the assistance from their monitoring agency, the State Bureau of Community Services (BCS), they learned of a $175,000 subcontract made with the Wayne County Office on Aging's Director Dante Divitto.

That contract, although frowned on by CUFA's parent funding agency, Community Service Administration (CSA), and made without board approval, provided for the hiring of Mrs. Conyers' reported paramour, The Rev. Noel Hord, as the coordinator of CUFA's ailing weatherization program.

And although the board refused to hire Hord, who arrived from Terre Haute, Ind., along with Mrs. Conyers in April 1979, Divitto agreed to his hiring. The hiring stipulated an increase in the coordinator's salary.

Board members said they have since learned that two employees in Weatherization have been receiving double compensation for their services, receiving, for instance, mileage allowances from both CUFA and the county's Office on Aging.

Hord, who is on an "administrative leave of absence" and still receiving pay, was unavailable for comment, as were Mrs. Conyers, Lewis, Luckie and Frederick. Divitto also refused comment.

In the meantime, many of the poor persons who had once looked to CUFA for assistance have given up hope for help.

After contacting 10 persons of the Westland, Inkster and Romulus communities, who reportedly were serviced by CUFA's Weatherization program many months ago, ANP in that random survey learned that none of those persons have actually been serviced.

And another 10 persons who were promised utility bill assistance last year, are still without assistance.

According to community center supervisors, who spoke off-the-record, even with BCS intervention last Friday in the utility assistance programs, services are slow.

"Our papers were so 'done' piled up that we didn't know which way to look. It is such a mess that, child, we just keep taking applications and keep promising people like we are told to," said one supervisor.

Because of suspected wrongdoings in the utility assistance programs, BCS has involved itself in the processing of applications, at least temporarily.

BCS officials, however, are looking to CSA officials to permanently mend CUFA's miserably managed programs and financial affairs. But CSA officials aren't so sure CUFA is salvagable.

"We've been bothered for years over delinquent audits, and questioned expenditures," said Otis Mitchell, branch chief of CSA's regional office. "But unless we're sitting in their laps at CUFA, we just don't know what they're doing."

CSA's Region V includes the monitoring of 30 Michigan community action agencies and 50 in Wisconsin, with eight field representatives responsible for those duties.

Mitchell said CSA is "considering" closing down CUFA, but the decision will not simply be based on recent allegations of wrongdoings, but the agency's overall history of performance.

"And if we did decide to close it down, which I'm not going to say we are, but if we do decide to do that, it will take at least six months for public hearings and other proper channels to follow," Mitchell said.

While Mitchell assumed "some" of the blame for CUFA's poor operating conditions, he said primarily should rest with the CUFA Board of Directors chairman, William McGill, who's assumed that role during two administrations. He also blamed board members for failing to muster up enough board members to convene their monthly board sessions with a quorum present.

"Anybody who's been around for these last years had to be blind not to see there were problems," Mitchell said. "But quite honestly we thought we were on the road to success when we saw the hiring of Mrs. Conyers."

"That apparently was a very big mistake... very big."

Requested by Rush

Detroit Diesel declines to provide city cars

Detroit Diesel Allison has turned down a request by a Romulus councilman that it furnished the city government with five automobiles.

The answer to a Dec. 22 letter from Councilman Ed Rush was contained in a response from Robert F. Brueck, manager, community and government relations, for Detroit Diesel.

Brueck's letter, in part, read: "All General Motors products are sold through independent dealers, franchised by the corporation. As part of those license agreements, GM does not compete in retail market place against those dealers by either selling or leasing directly."

Rush told the Roman: "I regret that Detroit Diesel is unable to provide at least one courtesy car for the mayor. I realize they are good taxpayers, and I'm glad Romulus has them."

Rush said he had made the request to Detroit Diesel because he had not wanted to overlook any opportunity to help the city.

"I personally feel that it would be an excellent goodwill gesture, if General Motors would furnish cars to the governments of every community in which they are located," the councilman explained.

Brueck, in his letter, said that Rush, as a newly-elected council member, may not be aware of the commitment to Romulus by his company.

"Detroit Diesel Allison chose to expand its operations in Romulus rather than moving to another area or state because we liked the community."

"Detroit Diesel Allison's Romulus taxes in 1979 amounted to nearly $1.5 million, five times the amount paid just five years ago."

His letter stated that City Council action in 1975 made it possible for Detroit Diesel to expand since then and to plan future expansion. The council voted to grant a tax abatement to GM plant at the time.

As evidence of GM's interest in the community, Brueck's letter said Detroit Diesel will pay half of the cost, $95,000, for construction of a new 12-inch city water main to the Hannan and Ecorse roads area. He added that many of the 200 employees who work in the plant live in the city and are active in its civic affairs.

The letter concluded that Detroit Diesel had contributed financially to such causes as the fire department, Kiwanis Club, Jaycees and the high school.

Although let down by the turn-down, Rush commented: "I felt I had to make the effort in the best interests of the city in view of our present cash shortage."

Sharing ideas

Get two politicians together and you're bound to find them talking politics. Taylor Mayor Donald Zub (left) cornered Romulus Mayor William Oakley Saturday evening to share ideas about their respective jobs. The duo met during Romulus's fifth Inaugural Ball, hosted by Mayor Oakley and held at the Hilton Airport Inn. (For more pictures see Page A-9).

County delays action on First Step shelter

First Step got some good news and bad news recently that has left it in a holding pattern regarding attempts to open a shelter for battered wives.

The out-Wayne County program for victims of domestic violence, based in Westland, has been trying to gain permission to renovate an unused ward in N building on the grounds of Wayne County General Hospital — Eloise for the shelter.

And the Wayne County Board of Commissioners gave the proposal a positive recommendation at its meeting recently.

However, the final decision is in the hands of the Board of Institutions, which governs the hospital grounds and use. And that committee last week told First Step director Debbie Benjamin that the ward already has been promised to someone else.

"They told us that the health department had been granted that space last summer," Ms. Benjamin explained. "However, the health department hasn't made any moves to renovate or use the space at all. They (the Board of Institutions) will be looking into it to see what the health department plans to do, and we'll be contacting them, too."

First Step can't get permission to move in until, and unless, the health department abandons its plans, despite the positive recommendation from the County Board of Commissioners.

"The Board of Institutions referred us to look at 'another building on the hospital grounds,'" Ms. Benjamin added. "We looked at it, but came to the conclusion that it wouldn't meet our needs."

That leaves First Step "on hold" in its search for a place where the victims of domestic violence can stay, with their families, for short-term shelter.

In the meantime, First Step continues to offer crisis phone counselling 24 hours a day at 595-1111, as well as individual and group counselling at the office, located in the Dorsey Community Center, on Dorsey Road just east of Venoy in Westland.

Opposition grows over proposal to revise state's Juvenile Code

A bill pending in the Michigan House of Representatives has been sharply criticized for stripping parents of their rights, while leaving them with all the responsibilities for their children.

State Rep. Connie Binsfeld (R-Maple City), author of an alternate juvenile code revision bill, said legislation sponsored by Democrat Mark Clodfelter of Flint (HB 4774) could result in more child abuse and serious juvenile crime and would take away most of the rights of parents to custody and control of their children.

The cost of the Clodfelter bill is excessive and will not make better juvenile services possible, Mrs. Binsfeld also charged.

"Do we want greatly increased taxes for a plan that won't make society safer, will seriously undermine the structure of the family and could result in more abuse?" Mrs. Binsfeld asked. "Because that is precisely what the citizens of this state will get if the Clodfelter bill is passed."

In a series of examples, Mrs. Binsfeld said the Clodfelter bill would make it more difficult to bring violent juveniles to justice; would permit young children to determine where and with whom they will live; could force many battered and neglected children to return unprotected to dangerous homes; and would cost $7 million in Wayne County alone the first year, and $6 million in successive years to implement, with proportionate costs in every other county in the state.

"This bill is a devastating attack on Michigan families and citizens," Mrs. Binsfeld said. "At a time when serious juvenile crime is on the rampage, the of abused and neglected children, more children may be abused, and more children may die as a result."

Mrs. Binsfeld said that despite broad bi-partisan support for her bill, and opposition to the Clodfelter bill from such groups as the Prosecuting Attorneys, committees of the Michigan Bar Association, the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, the Juvenile Justice Association of Michigan and the Michigan Council on Children and Youth, Clodfelter, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, continues to refuse to schedule public hearings on her bill.

"It's an arrogant approach, and I would urge everyone to support my efforts to have the Clodfelter bill reassigned to the Social Services Committee immediately," Mrs. Binsfeld said. "I believe with my whole heart that the family should be strengthened, not weakened, and that our safeguards should be expanded, not reduced, for those who are least able to protect themselves and for those, our children, to whom society owes special protection."

Mrs. Binsfeld said the Clodfelter bill is scheduled for legislative action within the next few weeks, so immediate action is necessary.

"If you don't want this bill passed, please contact your legislator immediately and tell him or her to vote against it. I have been very pleased that there is growing grass roots opposition to the Clodfelter bill and some people are circulating petitions to stop it. I would encourage anyone, or any group, to start a petition drive. I would be happy to help you see such petitions reach the right people."

BELLEVILLE CHIROPRACTIC LIFE CENTER
175 Second St., Belleville

BARTELL CHIROPRACTIC LIFE CENTER
23810 Mich. Ave. (at Telegraph), Dearborn

The highways and streets we drive along have many warning signs we immediately recognize, telling us well in advance that potential danger lies ahead. The human body has a similar set of signals. These critical symptoms are often the forerunners of more serious diseases... diseases that can be averted if the eight danger signs are heeded in time.

The 8 Danger Signs indicate spinal pressures and tensions on vital nerves:

- Headaches
- Loss of sleep
- Pain between the shoulders
- Stiffness or pain in lower back
- Stiffness of the neck
- Numbness in the arms or hands
- Numbness or pain in the legs
- Painful joints

Consult your Family Chiropractor

Every occupation creates its own stresses and strains, creating spinal pressure and tension on delicate, sensitive nerves. This is true of office workers as it is of heavy construction laborers; of housewives as it is of children at play. These nervous system "short circuits" adversely affect normal nerve energy flow, robbing the vital organs of their proper controlling force. Chiropractic care releases this latent force and restores the circumstances wherein normal function of these vital organs may be resumed.

Protect your health—See your Chiropractor now!

When any one of these important danger signs appears in a member of your family, you should call your family chiropractor immediately. With quick action on your part, and the training and ability of the chiropractor, it is entirely possible that pain and ill-feeling will be replaced by glowing good health.

Reading-math lab to continue work at high school

A reading and math lab will be in operation during the second semester at Romulus Senior High School, expanding its career program and ESP — Encouraging Successful Placement of Youth.

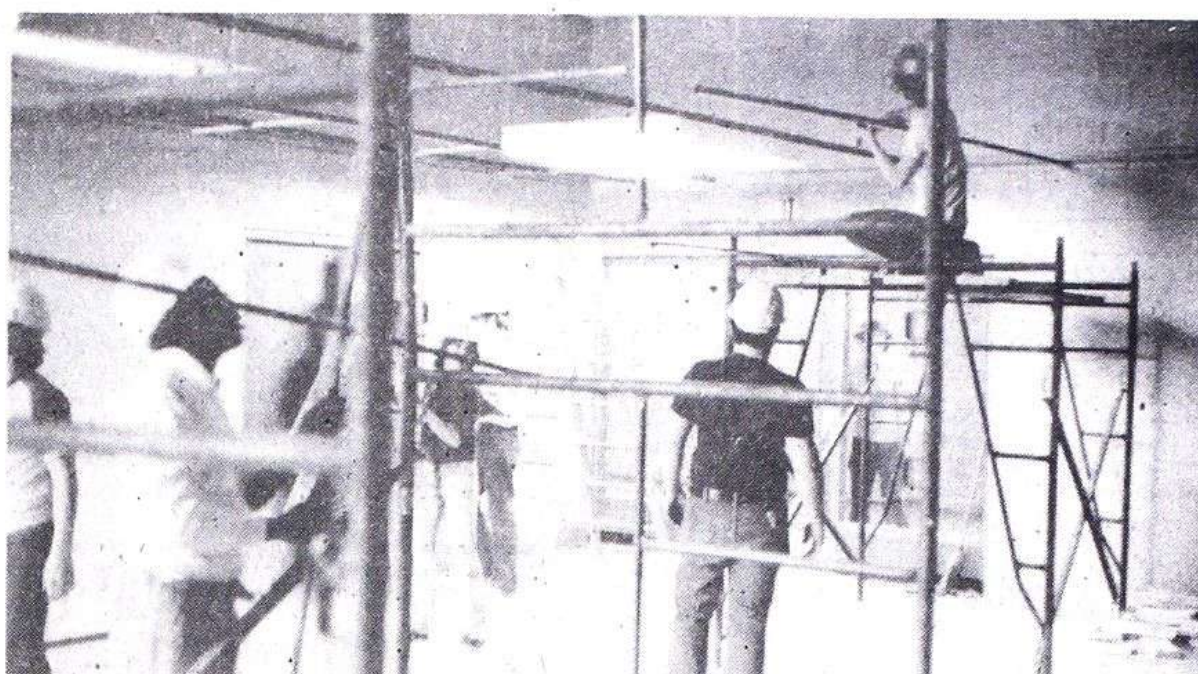

The overall goal of the reading and math lab is to help CETA enrollees and students improve their math and reading skills to a level where they are employable. Additional objectives include motivating students toward careers, improving survival skill competencies, providing for reading enrichment and giving workshops for employability skills.

The lab is a support service for all the students at the senior high school. CETA enrollees will be scheduled to receive services during their English or math classes, and students enrolled in vocational education classes will be referred by their teacher. The emphasis will be on individualized learning since the lab will be arranged in a series of independent work stations.

Funding for the lab was made available through a grant from Project Value, which was written by Jill Fleming, the reading specialist. Additional funding sources are the CETA Transitional Services grant through the Wayne County Office of Manpower and the Vocational Education Department.

The reading and math lab is located in a section of the old cafeteria across from the gym. The building trades I class is performing renovations for the facility.

Practicing

Vocational education students at Romulus Senior High School work on school's reading and math lab, using skills learned in the building trades program. These same skills someday can be taught to their children, school officials emphasized. (Photo by vocational education photography student.)

Cadet glee club to perform at EMU

The 60-voice West Point Cadet male Glee Club will perform in concert at Pease Auditorium on the campus of Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti on Feb. 15 at 8 p.m.

The Glee Club's appearance is sponsored by the Friends of the U.S. Military Academy, a group composed of academy alumni.

The concert will feature a repertoire not only depicting the history of the armed forces, but also will include current hit songs, American musical numbers and contemporary ballads. The Glee Club also boasts of a folk singing group, "The Headliners," who will sing folk rock and contemporary hits.

Also appearing will be the "Mixed Ensemble." This quartet, composed of both male and female cadets, will present hits from the popular musical "Godspell."

The entire presentation will be under the direction of William Cosby.

The Glee Club is an extra-curricular activity of the military academy and is supported by non-government funds.

Following the appearance in Ypsilanti the Glee Club will perform in Saginaw on Feb. 16 and in Birmingham and Detroit on Feb. 17.

Tickets for the Ypsilanti performance are $3. They may be obtained in advance at Eastern Michigan University, the Ann Arbor or Ypsilanti Chambers of Commerce and Hudson's Briarwood. Tickets may also be purchased at Pease Auditorium on the night of the performance.

On Saturday in Allen Park

FCA holds second breakfast

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA) will be sponsoring a second "Going Higher" breakfast this Saturday at the Red Fawn Banquet Room in Allen Park. The first breakfast, held at Leright's in Westland last month, was a huge success with a sell-out crowd of 220 high school athletes and their sponsors.

The large crowd prompted director Lloyd Preston to locate a larger meeting hall to accommodate an increase in the size of the crowd. "It proves to me that a program centered in the Person of Jesus Christ can attract the interest of high school athletes," Preston said.

Dick Shilts, head basketball coach and athletic director at Kalamazoo Valley Community College, will be the speaker. Shilts has been active in FCA for several years and is a respected coach in the State of Michigan.

The former head basketball coach at Western Michigan University moved to Kalamazoo Valley after the 1978-79 season and has the school off to its best start in several years. Shilts presently is the vice-president of the Michigan Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

Special music will be provided by the Wayne Life Assurance Company, a group of young gospel musicians from the area.

"These kids do a good job in their musical presentation, but most of all, they sing the praises of Jesus Christ," Preston said.

Athletes from all over the western and downriver metropolitan areas of Detroit were in attendance at the December breakfast. Jack Castignola, head football coach at Trenton, indicated that "it was a great opportunity to be involved in this type of program."

According to Preston: "there are more than 300 male and female athletes, expected to be in attendance with more than a dozen coaches of major area high schools."

Two of the reasons for the big turnout rests in Chuck Gordon, head football coach at John Glenn High School, and Floyd Carter, head football coach at Wayne Memorial High School. Each coach will be attending the breakfast, along with a large contingent of athletes from his respective school.

For your support

A committee from the Myrtle Beach, S.C., Chamber of Commerce paid a visit to Romulus last week on a goodwill tour of 86 cities in Georgia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky, Virginia, Ohio and Michigan, to say "thank you" to residents for the tourist business they have generated in the Myrtle Beach area. To show their thanks the visitors supplied two free trips to Myrtle Beach which were given to Joe Demusky of Kelsey Hayes and Pat Cadden "for her hard work with the Chamber." She is the chambers executive secretary. Students earn college credit in 'voc ed'

Vocational education students at Romulus Senior High School now are able to receive college credit at Wayne County Community College after completing senior high vocational education courses.

This process, called "articulation," requires the student to complete various vocational competencies. Presently, there are four vocational programs that are involved in the articulation process — auto mechanics, data processing, nursing and office education.

On Jan. 15 Gloria Conn, articulation consultant from Wayne County Intermediate School District, conducted an in-service meeting for the vocational education staff. She explained the procedures which must be completed so that the remaining programs could enter into the articulation agreement.

An "articulated" student will be able to receive up to 18 college credit hours. This credit will be recorded on the student's academic record after completing 15 credit hours at Wayne County Community College.

This project began in Romulus last spring with six students in office education completing the pilot project. The articulation project was initiated by the Michigan Department of Education, Vocational-Technical Education Service, working with community colleges and high school vocational programs to establish and improve relationships between these educational programs.

Students tour automotive plant

The General Motors Corp.'s X Body Assembly Plant at Willow Run served as a focal point of a tour by students from Mt. Pleasant Elementary School in Romulus.

Students from the classes of Mrs. Charlotte Price, James Madigan and Caryn Greene met with a representative of the GMAD tour department Jan. 10 for a tour of the plant.

During the visit the students found that five cars from each shift are tested for defects, with a perfect score being 145. At the present timing testing was aiming at scores of 135, with most cars falling into the 120 to 130 range.

Some 41 Chevrolet Citations, 18 Buick Skylarks and 11 Oldsmobile Omegas are assembled at the plant each hour on two 8-hour shifts.

Both students and adults were impressed with the complexity of putting a car together, said Harold Connon, principal. Especially interesting was putting the body and chassis together and the method of final testing the cars at high speeds on an immobile test dynamometer, he said.

There are only three assembly plants in the United States assembling the X-body cars, and the Willow Run plants builds three of these car lines. Pontiacs are built elsewhere. Also located at Willow Run are GM Truck and Coach, GM Air Transport and the Hydra-Matic Division.

"All who went on the tour agreed it was nice and exciting place to visit but only a few were interested in working there," Connon said.

In Brief

The Romulus Senior Center, in cooperation with Senior Citizens Club No. 1, and the Romulus Help Center, is conducting a series of four workshops at the senior center, 36515 Bibbins St., on topics of special interest to senior citizens.

The first session will be held on Tuesday from 12:45 to 2:45 p.m. Mrs. Sydney Ritere of the Romulus Help Center will be conducting the workshop, entitled "The Myths and Realities of Growing Older."

There will be no fee, and transportation will be provided. For further information call 941-0666, ext. 257.

Romulus School District will hold a meeting of the Romulus School Lunch Advisory Committee at 3 p.m. tomorrow (Jan. 31) at North Junior High School, 37300 Wick Road.

The general public is invited to discuss school menus and make recommendations for future menus.

ARA Food Service Director, W.G. Hind, will conduct the meeting. For further details call Madge Guarino at 941-8190.

Students will be demonstrating their know how during Vocational Education Week at the Romulus Senior High School through displays and tours. The theme is "Know How - Vocational Education Serves the Nation" and will be celebrated Feb. 11 through Feb. 14.

Special events are being planned and community and business will be invited to attend. Drawings, business interview videotaping, luncheons and a dinner are included in the week-long project.

Several teachers in the Romulus School District will go to class on Friday — and students at three schools will get the rest of the day off.

School will be dismissed at 10:45 a.m. Friday, Feb. 1 for faculty in service meetings. Teachers will gather for departmental meetings, curricular meetings and to discuss future workshops.

Students at Romulus North Junior High, South Junior High and Romulus High schools will be excused for the rest of the day after the 10:45 a.m. dismissal.

The Phi Delta Kappa chapter of Eastern Michigan University will hear Dr. Lee Hansen of the Ann Arbor Schools speak on Feb. 8 about the recent black English case and the implications for public schools. Dr. Hansen will address such questions as whether black English is a barrier to communication and how it affects speech patterns.

The meeting will be held on campus at McKenny Union. Dr. Irene Allen, president of the chapter, will begin the meeting at 7:30 p.m.

All interested persons are invited to attend.

Romulus allocates CD fund

Romulus City Council last week approved the allocation of the entire $120,000 the city has on hand in Community Development block grant funds for the fiscal year 1980-81.

Pat Hogan, community development director, explained that the city will file application for additional community development block grant money soon.

A breakdown of the allocated block grant funds is $43,800 for the clearing of existing natural storm drains in the city of weeds and grass which are choking the flow of water; $15,000 to match $15,000 from the state Department of Natural Resources for construction of two tennis courts at Henry Ruff Park No. 1; and $15,000 for the development of Cypress Park lot on Cypress west of Wayne Road.

Also allotted were $10,000 for improvement of exterior grounds at the Romulus Housing Commission with sodding, shrubbery and fencing; $10,000 to continue the administration of the senior citizens minor home repair program operated by the Romulus Help Center; $10,000 to continue Eager Beaver program at the Family and Neighborhood Services of the assistance provided for developmentally disabled children and adults in the areas of life skills counseling and vocational skills.

Also planned are $1,200 for funding for the Romulus Farm-a-lot program to buy seeds and supplies for citizens who wish to farm vacant lots near their homes; and $15,000 for the administration of block grant programs.

Schools receive funding

Romulus Community Schools has received a $200,000 grant for the continuation of the Career Development Program at Romulus Senior High School. This is the third year the local school district has been awarded a CETA Transitional Services grant from the Wayne County Office of Manpower.

The district must compete with several other school districts and local agencies for the available money. The staff submits a detailed proposal each year describing the services offered and the need for the continuation of the program for the community.

The career program, ESP — Encouraging Successful Placement of Youth — provides services to clients, 16 to 21 years of age, in career counseling, career information, reading improvement and job placement. This year's proposal has been expanded to include additional staff and services to assist clients in developing basic survival skills in mathematics.

Persons needing assistance in identifying a career interest, occupational information, finding a job and basic survival skills can call 941-0800 for an appointment, Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

MTU posts Dean's List

Several Belleville-Romulus residents were among 746 Michigan Technological University students named to the Dean's List for the fall quarter.

Earning 3.5 grade point averages or higher were John E. Landoski, a senior majoring in forestry and the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Landoski of Bemis Road, Belleville; Kareem F. Fakhoury, a junior majoring in electrical engineering and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Latif Fakhoury of Waltz Road, Belleville; Joyce D. Akers, a freshman majoring in electrical engineering and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Akers of King Road, Romulus; and Andrew J. Orgovan, a junior majoring in electrical engineering and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Orgovan Jr. of Ball Road, Romulus.

Also on the college scene: Five Belleville-Romulus students have been named to the Dean's List for the fall term at Madonna College in Livonia.

Named to the Dean's List were Ralph Kessler of Belleville, a junior majoring in business; Lois Robbins of Belleville, a junior majoring in business; Terri Toporek of Romulus, who is majoring in business; Annette Bell of Romulus, who is majoring in criminal justice; and Jane Deloge of Romulus, who is majoring in gerontology.

The students had to carry at least 12 semester hours and maintain a grade point average of 3.5 or better to be named to the Dean's List.

Alvenia Warren of Ecorse Road, Romulus, has been named one of the outstanding students of Grand Valley State College's Developmental Skills Institute for the fall 1979 term.

She had to achieve a 3.5 grade point average, or earn two A's and one B, to be named to the listing.

Three Belleville residents have gained staff appointments at Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti.

Staff appointments went to Robert Kuhn of Belleville, group leader in the physical plant department; Dan Palmer of Belleville, key entry operator in university computing; and Diane Wilson, of Belleville, secretary in the biology department.

Worried About How You'll Look With A Hearing Aid?

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

True, all hearing problems are not alike... and some cannot be helped by a hearing aid. But audiologists report that many can. So, send for this free model now, and wear it in the privacy of your own home. It is not a real hearing aid, but it will show you how tiny hearing help can be. It's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 22687, Beltone Electronics, 4201 W. Victoria, Chicago, Ill. 60646.

Peace of mind for free.

From a vanishing culture

Wax cylinders preserve Indian chants and songs

By KATHRYN LINDEMAN
Smithsonian News Service

At first there was only a scratching sound. Then, filling a recording studio as it must have filled an Indian lodge years ago, came the sound of Raincloud of the Chippewa tribe chanting a dream song. Rising and falling rhythmically, overpowering the defects of the recording made more than a half century ago, the words of the sacred song came to life once more.

To capture such songs, Frances Densmore, a musician and teacher, has tramped through the wilds of northern Minnesota in the early 1900s, recording on wax cylinders, the most effective device then available to researchers studying the rapidly vanishing culture of native American tribes.

As a child in the 1870s, Densmore had listened to the enchanting songs and sounds from a Sioux Indian camp across the Mississippi River from her home in Red Wing, Minn. Like others interested in preserving tribal customs, she later became determined to record songs and chants of the oldest Indian singers, whose tribes had roamed the plains and prairies before wars with the white explorers and settlers doomed them to humiliation or extinction.

Densmore eventually recorded and described in special publications more than 3,000 songs of 30 tribes, from the Minnesota Chippewa in 1907 to the Florida Seminole in 1954.

Her recordings and those by other researchers now are being transferred to modern high-quality magnetic tape in a 3-year project underway at the Library of Congress' American Folklife Center. The Smithsonian's Thomas Vennum is director of the project, which involves more than 3,500 wax cylinder recordings of American Indian music and legends recorded from 1889 to 1930.

"Along with the major concern of preservation," Vennum said, "the project is intended to provide native Americans with information about their past. There is an increasing desire among tribal peoples to recover old documents and revive cultural traditions. Many have their own tribal museums and want early recordings to be part of their collections."

Saved, for example, are recordings of Winnebago flute melodies, Navaho ceremonial songs and songs of the Sioux sundance — all of which help both scholars and native Americans reconstruct life the way it was for the great tribes.

To record the Indian traditions, Densmore purchased an Edison Home Phonograph in 1907 with a (Continued on Page A-8)

RESOLUTION 79-526
CAPAC KASAMA PROJECT
WHEREAS: there exists in the City of Romulus (the "Municipality"), the need for certain programs to alleviate and prevent conditions of unemployment, to assist and retain local industries and commercial enterprises in order to strengthen and revitalize the Municipality's economy and to encourage the location and expansion of industries and commercial enterprises to provide needed services and facilities to the Municipality and its residents; and
WHEREAS: as one of its programs to alleviate the aforesaid conditions and accomplish said purposes, The Economic Development Corporation of the City of Romulus (the "Corporation") in conformity with Act 338, Michigan Public Acts, 1974, as amended ("Act 338"), has initiated proceedings with respect to the potential issuance of its limited obligation economic development revenue bonds to assist in the financing of the Project captioned in the title of this resolution and in this regard, has designated the "Project Area" (as defined in Section 8(1) of Act 338) described in Exhibit A hereto (the "Project Area"), and has recommended to this governing body of the Municipality for establishment by it of the "Project District Area"

(referred to in Section 12(1) of Act 338) described in Exhibit B hereto (the "Project District Area"); and
WHEREAS: under Act 338 it is necessary that this governing body of the Municipality approve the Project Area and establish the boundaries of the Project District Area; and
WHEREAS: It is also necessary that this governing body of the Municipality advise and consent to the appointment by the chief executive of the Municipality of two additional directors of the Corporation who shall serve with respect to the proposed Project; and
WHEREAS: The Project Area designated by the Corporation and the Project District Area recommended by the Local Public Agency have been reviewed and approved by the Local Public Agency as defined under Act 338 (i.e., "the official body of a municipality authorized to plan and implement the development and redevelopment of the municipality"); and NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED THAT:
1. The Project Area designated by the Corporation and described in Exhibit A is approved.
2. The Project District Area, i.e., the territory surrounding the Project which will be significantly affected by the Project, shall be as recommended by the Local Public Agency and as described in Exhibit B.
3. There being less than 18 residents, real property owners, or representatives of establishments located in the Project District Area, it is hereby determined that the requirement of Section 20 of Act 338 have been met and that the formation of a citizens project district council is not required.
4. The chief executive officer of the Municipality, with the advice and consent of the governing body of the Municipality, does hereby appoint Donald Brown and Evelyn Brainard as directors of the Corporation, to serve in respect to the Project, as representatives of neighborhood residents and business interests likely to be affected by the Project.
5. The clerk of the Municipality shall deliver a certified copy of this resolution to the Secretary of the Board of the Corporation.
6. All resolutions and parts of resolutions insofar as they conflict with the provisions of this resolution be and the same hereby rescinded.

Things that matter

"Then there's the one about the farmer's daughter," said the minister to his Sunday morning congregation.

The joke was a real knee-slapper

6 Mormon wards ready to stage
annual road show

Six wards of the stake area of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) will be presenting their annual "road show" production at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the Westland Stake Center, 7575 N. Hix Road, Westland.

This year's show theme will be church history in honor of the church's 150th birthday. The church was founded on April 6, 1880 by Joseph Smith Jr. in Fayette, N.Y.

The six wards—Westland, Livonia, Monroe, Oakwood, Plymouth and Dearborn, will each provide a 15-minute act as part of the "road show".

Each act is provided entirely by local talent and includes a script, music, choreography, scenery and costumes. Along with the 15-minute time limit, each act must include young men and women between the ages of 12 and 18 years.

The Westland Ward's act will center around two contestants in a beauty contest. The script was written by a committee of seven, and the act is being co-directed by Paula Adler of Currier Street, and laughter rang throughout the church.

Sacrilegious? Many church people would probably think so. (Actually, the incident above never really happened.) Humor in church amounts to disrespect for the sacred in the minds of many.

Three out of four Lutherans "do not believe that Jesus told jokes," according to a book, "A Study in Generations," based on interviews with 5,000 Lutherans between the ages of 15 and 65.

Lutherans in the U.S., the study revealed, "emphasize the divinity of Jesus almost to the exclusion of his humanity." Jokes and laughter are not associated in the Christian mind with divinity.

But it isn't only Lutherans who frown on levity in church. There is the story of a mother whose small son kept turning around in church and grinning at everyone.

Finally, she jerked the boy by the sleeve and admonished him. "Stop that grinning," she said. "You're in church." She gave him a spanking that made him cry.

"That's better," she said.

There are only three passages in the Bible where God is pictured as laughing. And in all three instances it is a laugh of derision — not a happy laugh.

There are no references to smiling or laughter in the New Testament except to protest against it. Luke warns, "Alas for you who laugh, you shall weep and mourn." James advises, "Turn your laughter into mourning and your gaiety into gloom."

Are Lutherans right that Jesus didn't tell jokes?

It depends on which Bible scholar you listen to.

Elton Trueblood, author of "The Humor of Christ," pictures Jesus as keeping his listeners in stitches whenever he told the story of the Pharisees who had a habit of being over-pat .icular about unimportant things but overlooking the things that matter.

They strain what they drink, said Jesus, so they won't swallow a gnat but they will eat a camel and not even notice.

To an Oriental, suggests Trueblood, this could be "wildly funny" as he imagines "the camel's long hairy neck sliding down the throat of the Pharisee — all that loose-hung anatomy, the hump, the legs ..."

But another theologian, Dr. William Hamilton, isn't laughing. "Jesus used irony, yes — exaggeration, yes," says Hamilton. "But when a preacher tries to make me laugh with the (to him) wildly funny business about the gnat and the camel, I sit speechless with incomprehension."

Whether Jesus told jokes or not, most of the artistic representations of him reveal a solemn face or show only the faintest smile.

"You never see him displaying his teeth in a jovial grin," notes one critic of religious art.

The taboos against laughter in church go back to earliest Christian times. Many early Christians in the Greek and Latin church had had pagan upbringings that made them naturally light-hearted and the Church Fathers had to educate them in the seriousness of Christian behavior.

Chrysostom told the people of Constantinople and Antioch, "We are not assembled together to burst into peals of laughter but to weep for our sins."

Those who would like to see more humor in church are not unaware of the dangers it would pose.

They grant that the sacred and serious must have priority and that humor should not be a caricature or treat matters of ultimate consequences as trivia.

"Humor should be an interlude, a periodic suspension of seriousness," says M. Conrad Hyers, author of "Holy Laughter."

"Seriousness alone is stultifying, it intensifies anxiety," says Hyers, who finds a certain therapy in laughter.

"Sin is to be taken seriously but not too seriously," he says. "In laughter as well as in repentance, sin is purged, guilt is relieved and shame is taken away."

Hyers is not alone in finding therapeutic power in laughter.

Norman Cousins, in his new book, "Anatomy of An Illness," tells how he used laughter to help overcome a serious illness which had made doctors despair of his recovery.

If laughter is healing to soul and body, it probably has a place in religion.

What was that joke again about the farmer's daughter, Reverend? (c) 1980 United Feature Syndicate.

4C1 Motion by Block, supported by Rush, to adopt Resolution 80-010:

RESOLUTION 80-010

WHEREAS: The City Council of the City of Romulus has been mandated by the citizens of said City to provide additional recreational facilities; and

WHEREAS: The City Council of the City of Romulus recognized the benefits which can be derived by individual citizens through their utilization of recreational facilities; and

WHEREAS: Said benefit is most often overlooked when a municipality attempts to quantify the benefits that the various services they offer provide the citizens of its community, in that said benefits are reflected primarily in physical fitness, but more significantly is a direct deterrent to crime, as said participation provides outlet for an innumerable number of anxieties; and

WHEREAS: The Michigan Department of Natural Resources through its Bureau of Outdoor Recreation has provided a plan for local municipalities through which on a 50-50 match basis financial assistance for acquisition and development of parks may be obtained; and

WHEREAS: The Citizens of the City of Romulus have need of outdoor recreational facilities which would increase participation in activities which provide an outlet for these anxieties; and

WHEREAS: The City of Romulus must seek financial assistance to develop said facilities.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: That the City Council of the City of Romulus does herewith authorize the Mayor of said City to file an application with the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, for the development of tennis courts at Henry Ruff Park.

8. Motion by Raspberry, supported by Cantrell, to adopt Resolution 80-011:

RESOLUTION 80-011

WHEREAS: The Westland Fire Department has seen fit to condemn the "D" Bldg, at Eloise known as the Metropolitan Regional Psychiatric hospital; and

WHEREAS: The City of Romulus's as well as twenty-eight other Downriver Communities', Psychiatric Emergency patients have been using this facility for many years; and

WHEREAS: The loss of this facility will require transportation of patients to Northville and other more distant Psychiatric Care Facilities, often using two and sometimes three policemen, and requiring an hour for round trip, as well as an additional hour to one and a half hours before patient can be admitted. Resulting effect will be that police manpower will suffer greatly in the catchment area, leaving the communities short of officers on patrol; and

WHEREAS: Many of the visitors and relatives visiting the admitted patients daily at Bldg. "D" use buses and are in the 40-60 age bracket, will have no direct bus service to the Northville location.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: That a better solution should be sought with the aforementioned problems being taken into consideration before any further moves are contemplated and implemented.

FURTHER BE IT RESOLVED: That a more convenient place be designated for the emergency psychiatric patients from this catchment area.

FURTHER BE IT RESOLVED: That the City of Romulus, in concurrence with the Resolution adopted by the Council of the City of Inkster, does hereby protest this double hazard to our communities.

FINALLY BE IT RESOLVED: That copies of this Resolution be sent to Governor Milliken and our State Legislators.

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 30

Read 1 Corinthians 4:1-6

"My little children, let us not love in word, neither in tongue; but in deed and in truth." (1 John 3:18)

We took it to our home in Missouri—the huge knobby rock from Indiana. It was a valued souvenir, and it was anything but beautiful. It was a geode, uncommon in our area. The rock might be beautiful inside; then again, it could be solid rock.

I moved it here and there, finally relegating it to a corner of the stairway in our house. I passed it each time I climbed the steps. Sometimes I touched the rough surface, wondering what might lie inside. At last, curiosity got the better of me—I toted it off to the rock shop where I left it to be sawed in half.

How beautiful it was, with crystal caverns, jagged overhangs, and small tunnels that twisted and turned beyond my sight. With precision and beauty God had manifested another of His many wonders! That beauty would have been forever unseen if I had not had the rock opened.

The rock is akin to the lives of people around me. At times they seem grey, unfriendly and dull. I need to take lessons from the geode—ignore the superficial and search for the beauty underneath.

PRAYER: Dear God, open my eyes and my heart. Let me take the time to examine and understand. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY: Look for beauty everywhere.

From a vanishing culture

Wax cylinders preserve Indian chants and songs

$150 grant from the Bureau of American Ethnology, established by the Smithsonian Institution in 1879 specifically to document disappearing aspects of Indian culture.

The wax cylinders she used came on the market in 1889, invented by Thomas A. Edison, who believed them superior to disc recordings. In the field, a researcher toted a small horn for recording, a large horn for playback, the phonograph itself and the boxes of cylinders. Even though the equipment was heavy and bulky, there was less paraphernalia involved in recording on wax than on discs.

Wax cylinders, made in 4-inch and 6-inch lengths, could accommodate an average of 4 minutes worth of music. Most of them were black or various shades of brown. A cylinder's shape resembled nothing so much as a modern frozen orange juice container with both ends removed.

Despite their fragility and primitive nature, cylinders had certain advantages. They could be played back immediately for comments from the singers, and the recordings could be erased with a shaving machine. No compensation was necessary for inner groove distortion, as with discs, since a cylinder's grooves were all of equal distance from the stylus arm.

In a Library of Congress recording studio, Erika Brady, a doctoral candidate in folklore working at the library, tapes the music from the cylinders, simultaneously adding on a second track an explanation of her procedure step by step: "This cylinder is being played at 67 feet per minute, which is 120 revolutions per minute ... The stylus size is 10 mil with a hemispheric tip ... Having a little tracking problem here ..."

"This commentary is made so that anyone listening to the tapes can have an explicit idea of how it was recorded," Brady said. She also describes the physical condition of the cylinder she is working with. "In recording onto the preservation tapes, I filter out only as much of the scratchy sound as necessary to make the recording intelligible."

Some of the scratchy overtone is caused by cylinder deterioration. The cylinders — made of a soaplike substance containing paraffin, stearic acid and softeners, such as olive oil or castor oil — are very brittle and fragile because of age, Brady said. Although they are wrapped in cotton and stored in cardboard tubes, many have been scratched or broken, mice have gnawed the edges or mold has formed. All of this points to the urgency of getting the songs onto tape: The cylinders themselves can't be preserved indefinitely.

Specialized equipment used for cylinder playback was developed years ago by the library's recording expert, Robert Carneal.

"Remarkably, some of the early field researchers used very good equipment," he said. "Our equipment uses parts of the original devices, but we've added a modified stylus and an anti-flutter wheel to keep the driving belt at a constant speed."

Listening to the songs, most persons can identify through the static the insistent rhythm of the chants or pick out the drums and rattles, the usual accompaniment to the Indian songs. But it takes a trained ear to identify the tribe and type of song.

Vennum and Folklife Center staff members Maria LaVigna and Ronald Walcott sort through the cylinders and gather information about each one. Vennum said the challenge of providing accurate and complete documentation is as important as getting a good recording.

"We feel a big responsibility to include as much about the songs as possible — the date, singer, song, text, English translation, recorder's name and anything else we know about the contents."

"Most of the cylinders are fairly well documented, but some of the labels have fallen off the storage boxes, making the identification task even more of a challenge. There probably will be lots we'll never uncover in our research, but then again, we also may hear someone say, 'Hey, that's my grandfather.'"

In one case, projects researchers rediscovered certain sacred songs which were thought by their tribe to be lost forever. By circulating among scholars a master tape of unidentified music, Vennum hopes to recover additional song texts, identify song genres and generate more documentation from areas where field workers are studying particular tribes.

Vennum, LaVigna and Walcott are trying to organize the remaining cylinders, which after World War II were divided among various agencies. Today, the Library of Congress have the largest number, but some are stored at the Smithsonian, the National Archives and other organizations.

"Our copies of these early recordings, the commentaries and documentation won't be on the 'Top 10' list for the general public," Vennum noted, "but they will be available to both scholars and native Americans who want to know more about traditional songs that went out of use a generation or two ago. We think these songs are worth the effort."

Contest winners

Their expertise with crayons, colored pencils and felt tip markers have garnered these four youngsters four free tickets each to the Harlem Globetrotters visit to Detroit this month. Open to children under 12 years, the contest winners included Jennifer Kadlec, 10, a student at Washington Elementary School in Wayne and who lives on Chestnut Street in Wayne (from left); LaShawn Thompson, 9, of Liberty Street, Inkster, a student at Woodson Elementary School; Ken Pletzer, 12, of Walnut Street, Canton, a student at Pioneer Middle School in Canton; and Ann Marie Bury, 11, of Martinsville Road, Belleville, a student at St. Anthony's School in Belleville. — ANP photo.

county in the state for several years and emphasized that "I believe the state should pay for this service in Wayne County also."

A Detroit attorney and chairman of the Ways and Means Committee for the past three years, Turner also condemned Gov. William G. Milliken for withholding probation funds from the county until reorganization is achieved.

"I reject the Governor's ultimatum," Turner insisted. "He has approved the spending of state funds for part of the cost of this service in Wayne County previously without condition, and he had approved these payments in full to other counties in previous years without condition."

Turner accused the Governor of carving a "special new commandment" for Wayne County without just consideration of facts. He said that the Governor's irritation with Wayne County is jeopardizing local criminal justice systems.

He claimed further injustice because Wayne County taxpayers are financing about $16 million of the approximate $20 million state-wide cost of social welfare programs, he said.

Regarding probation services, Turner said after his address that these are not provided for this fiscal year in the general budget, and that the courts would be "hard pressed" to fund from their own budgets.

"We have our backs against the wall," he said.

Also, Turner explained, without probation services the courts will be forced to send many more offenders to prison and likely to cause overcrowding.

He said that state officials recognize this possibility, and accordingly, the state "ought to do the right thing. You cannot compromise on what is right."

Turner announces appointments to board's standing committees

Samuel A. Turner, new chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners has announced his appointments to the board's five standing committees.

Traditionally, the appointments are made at the beginning of each year for 1-year duration. A Detroit attorney, Turner was elected board chairman by a majority of his colleagues on Jan. 3, after serving for the past three years as chairman of the Ways and Means Committee.

In making his selections Turner said the primary objective was to "choose commissioners who could get the job done."

He said that he was sensitive to a balance between Detroit and out-county commissioners, but that his major concern was the ability, time available and pertinent experience that individual commissioners have for solving particular problems.

"Above and beyond that, I wanted work-teams to form a nucleus for efforts to present our message more effectively in Lansing where we will be making a series of presentations as an integral part of our financial planning this year," Turner emphasized.

Alex Pilch of Dearborn was appointed chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, generally considered the most powerful committee because it is required for approval of all money matters. Last year he was vice-chairman of the committee.

The other committee chairmen are Paul G. Citkowski of Detroit, retained as chairman of the General Government Committee; Martha G. Scott of Highland Park returned as chairman of the Human Resources Committee; Clarence R. Young of Ecorse chairman of the Public Works Committee; and Edward K. Michalski, chairman of the Public Safety and Judiciary Committee.

Committee vice-chairmen are Arthur M. Carter of Detroit, vice-chairman of General Government; Kay L. Beard of Inkster, vice-chairman of Human Resources; William Sullivan of Wyandotte, vice-chairman of Public Works; and Delores Bennett of Detroit, vice-chairman of Public Safety and Judiciary.

Other committee members are: — General Government, Edgar L. Harris (D-Taylor), George F. Killean (D-Detroit), Jarrette Simmons (D-Detroit) and also Pilch. — Human Resources, Mary E. Duman (R-Livonia), R. William Joyner (D-Plymouth), Norbert Wisniewski (D-Detroit) and Maxcine Young (D-Detroit). — Public Works, Richard E. Manning (D-Redford-Livonia), Rose Mary C. 8A. Motion by Raspberry, Supported by Rush, to adopt resolution 80-004.

RESOLUTION 80-004

WHEREAS: This nation is experiencing an age of ever spiraling inflation and a heightening energy crises; affecting most severely citizens least able to keep pace, servicemen, elderly persons and the disabled; and

WHEREAS: The ever increasing cost of living serves to disenfranchise the aforementioned citizens, particularly as it affects their ability to participate in the election process; and

WHEREAS: This nation is actively pursuing stimulation of declining voter participation; the City Council of the City of Romulus believes it to be prudent and in keeping with national goals to promulgate legislation designed to enhance the ability of senior citizens, servicemen and disabled persons to exercise their rights to vote and to stimulate declining voter participation in general.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: That the City Council of the City of Romulus, Michigan, does herewith set forth its support for HR 5529, a bill to amend title 39, United States Code, to provide that absentee ballots cast in any public election or referendum may be mailed free of postage, and that certain voting materials may be mailed at reduced rates.

BE IT FINALLY RESOLVED: That copies of this resolution be forwarded to Jimmy Carter, President of the United States, Donald Reigle and Carl Levin, United States Senators, William Ford, United States Congressman, and William Faust, State Senator.

Roll call vote showing: Ayes - Block, Canejo, Raspberry, Rush, Cantrell, Yeramian, Banks. Nays - None. Motion carried unanimously.

80-005

8B. Motion by Block, supported by Canejo, to adopt Resolution 80-005.

RESOLUTION 80-005

WHEREAS: The City of Romulus incorporated in 1970, under the provisions of the home rule act, to enhance the municipalities ability to more adequately provide for the needs of the residents living within its boundaries; and

WHEREAS: The City of Romulus proceeded under its mandate to provide essential public services to residents living therein, through the construction of a basic sanitary sewerage system designed to accommodate planned development, by way of substantial investment by the residents thereof; and

WHEREAS: The executive committee of Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) has introduced a resolution requiring a five (5 percent) percent reduction in the amount of new sewer lines to be built in southeast Michigan over the next twenty (20) years, based on feasibility and facility studies developed by SEMCOG staff; studies which are atrociously incomplete; and

WHEREAS: The City Council of the City of Romulus finds that arbitrarily restricting sewer construction in southeast Michigan by five (5 percent) percent could prove to be discriminatory, confiscatory and retardant to the whole of the City of Romulus, and most significantly, contrary to planned development ongoing within our community.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: By the City Council of the City of Romulus, that it does herewith set forth its unalterable opposition to the executive committee arbitrarily calling for a five (5 percent) percent reduction of new sewer construction in southeast Michigan.

BE IT FINALLY RESOLVED: That copies of this resolution be forwarded to Governor Milliken, Senator Faust, Representatives Mahalak and Owen, Executive Committee of SEMCOG and all member communities.

Roll call vote showing: Ayes - Block, Canejo, Raspberry, Rush, Cantrell, Yeramian, Banks. Nays - None. Motion carried unanimously.

9. Motion by Rush, supported by Yeramian, to adjourn the meeting. Roll call vote showing: Ayes - Block, Canejo, Raspberry, Yeramian, Cantrell, Rush, Banks. Nays - None. Motion carried unanimously.

Respectfully submitted,

Leonard J. Folmar, Clerk

City of Romulus

I, Leonard J. Folmar, Clerk for the City of Romulus, do hereby certify the foregoing to be a true copy of the minutes of the regular meeting of the Romulus City Council held on the 2nd day of January, 1980.

The City of Romulus's fifth inaugural ball, hosted by second term Mayor William Oakley, was the social highlight of the new year in that Western Wayne County Community.

Held last weekend at the Hilton Airport Inn and attended by more than 350 people, the event was also a first for Romulus. No other mayor in its history has had the opportunity to host the event more than once.

Hors d'oeuvres, catered by Ron Campbell of Campbell's Chop Shop of Romulus, consisted of a variety of finger sandwiches, canapes, crackers and spreads, cold vegetables, chicken wings, meat balls, kielbasa and cake and coffee, in addition to cocktails.

Music for the occasion was provided by "Soft Touch".

In brief remarks, the mayor thanked the assembled guests for coming and pledges continued efforts to put the city on a sound financial footing during his second term in office.

Editorial opinions

Mobile homes

Mobile home owners in the state of Michigan are finally getting some help in their long battle to improve living conditions in their parks.

For more than 10 years, the Canton Eagle and the other five weeklies of Associated Newspapers have written stories detailing the problems and plight of mobile home owners. The Canton Eagle, however, has taken the lead in the battle during the past decade, first with a series of stories as early as 1969 and then again last year.

It was the series of stories in last year's Canton Eagle — depicting the problems of the mobile home tenants with their homes and the lack of response by park owners — that led State Rep. Thomas H. Brown (D-37th District) to author a bill to regulate the park owners.

The bill — HB No. 5247 — provides for a mobile home code, a model mobile home park rent structure and the licensing, construction, operation and management of mobile home parks. In addition, the proposed law would "provide for local mobile home park councils; provide for the titling of mobile homes; prescribe the powers and duties of certain agencies and departments; provide remedies and penalties, repeal certain acts and parts of acts, and provide for the expiration of the act."

Vincent Petitpre, who served as State Representative for the 37th district before Brown, also deserves a lot of credit for the proposed mobile home park bill.

Brown is to be highly commended for his new bill, which was co-sponsored by many state representatives. He feels that help on the state level is long overdue for mobile home owners.

"Many times local governments regarded mobile home parks as private property and felt they could not enter without the owner's permission," Brown said. "However, State Police tell me they regard mobile parks as public property and treat it as such in carrying out law enforcement."

Brown also contended that local and county officials were reluctant to enforce certain ordinances "because there was no state law to cover the situation."

"It is the intent of my bill to delineate certain areas and responsibilities to help protect mobile home owners and let them know exactly where they stand," Brown explained.

Brown's bill does a good job of protecting mobile home tenants who, for the most part, have been at the mercy of park owners as long as mobile homes have been in existence.

Basically, the law would do five things for mobile home owners, according to Brown.

It would insure proper leases; institute certain rules and regulations; cover rent-setting and increases; outline services to mobile home parks by local governments and detail the rights of mobile home owners.

We agree with every concept of the bill, except the part dealing with rent control. We believe firmly in the free enterprise system and are convinced that rent controls would stifle business and eventually hurt more than it would help.

Rent controls would stop many mobile park owners, who have planned to build new parks, from constructing new sites.

We support and endorse Brown's new bill and encourage him, local community leaders and mobile home owners in their efforts to achieve better conditions in their parks. This is, and always has been, what Associated Newspapers has fought for.

Every Mobile Park owner must define what services are available and what costs will be for which designated items. However, we feel the principle of supply and demand is the best way to go and that rent controls are to be avoided.

We hope that segment of the bill — rent controls — will be stricken from an otherwise long overdue remedy. Likewise, we're happy our newspapers had a part, along with many other people, in helping mobile home tenants enjoy a better way of life.

To our readers:

This page in the Associated Newspapers is being made available to the residents of the communities we serve.

Anyone of any age is invited to submit an open letter to their community or to the editor of Associated Newspapers.

We will publish letters on any subject. If you feel you have a plan for solving a city problem, or wish to comment on someone else's plan, this space is being reserved for you.

If you or your group would like to address the community at large, or just an individual, this space is reserved for you.

If you think you can do it better, cheaper, faster, or with more flair, this is the place to tell everyone about it.

You are invited to send your opinions on events, or items of public interest, to the editor of Associated Newspapers, 35540 Michigan Avenue, Wayne 48184.

Names will be withheld from letters published only for very good reason. The reason must be included in the letter.

The editor reserves the right to edit and/or condense letters where necessary.

Associated Newspapers has just given you a public voice. If a story is worth telling to your neighbor, why not tell it to your whole community.

Levin's Washington

Only home sometimes

By CARL LEVIN
U.S. Senator

Near the end of my U.S. campaign in 1978, someone asked my youngest daughter, Erica, how she felt about her father's run for office. She responded unhappily, "He used to come home sometimes."

Here I was on the verge of upsetting a two-term incumbent and former minority whip of the Senate to take a seat in the most prestigious legislative body in the land. I was succeeding against Robert P. Griffin where two of the most popular politicians in Michigan history, G. Mennen "Soapy" Williams and Frank Kelley, had failed. I was going to win.

But that did not mean much to a 10-year-old. She rightfully wanted to see more of her father. I am in public service to give my time and energy to the public good. Any public servant must be willing to make personal sacrifices.

I also owe my family the affection a parent should give. We all do.

What is happening to the family in our society concerns me a great deal. It has been taking place in part because of changing social values and in part because of government action and inaction.

Without intending, government often has disrupted family life. We help pay the cost of keeping the elderly in institutions while we refuse to assist families who care for the aged at home. We encourage neighborhood destruction by promoting urban sprawl. We encourage divorce and separation with ill-conceived and badly administered welfare programs, discriminatory tax policies and poorly designed sections of Social Security and the Medicare and Medicaid programs.

We have contributed enormous expenditures for children in foster care homes, and we have provided minimal assistance for counseling and rehabilitation to families experiencing problems. If we were giving enough assistance to family counseling and rehabilitation, we might not have to spend nearly so much on children in foster care homes. The children would be able to stay with their families.

We have allowed, meanwhile, television violence to warp the sensibilities of our children. Advertisements that distort reality are a normal form of persuasion. We have allowed our cities to deteriorate, our suburbs to become plastic and our rural areas to sink into poverty.

And we wonder why things aren't like they were in the good old days.

Last year, I won approval of one measure that I hope will help. The Senate accepted my adoption subsidy amendment, which would give subsidies to families who adopt hard-to-place children. The subsidies would not exceed the cost of foster care and ultimately should save federal money.

Government must stop being an unwitting accomplice in these crimes against family and community, but that is not the only answer to our problems. As individuals, we must find ways to restore a sense of family and community. We must try to spend as much time with our families as we do with our business.

How we spend the time with our families is as important as how much time we spend with them.

I joined Senator Quentin N. Burdick of North Dakota to sponsor a resolution giving President Carter the authority to declare Thanksgiving week as National Family Week. The resolution would make National Family Week an annual event. It sets aside a time to recognize family life in America and the role family life has played in developing our fundamental values.

The week of Thanksgiving is an appropriate time for the observance of family week. It's a time when families traditionally gather.

I would like, however, to extend the same spirit to the rest of the year. The good feelings we share at Thanksgiving should be shared around the dinner table each evening.

Too often, we substitute money and material goods for the real wealth we have to give our families. We should be sharing our affection and experiences with our families. Our children can learn a lot from us. We can get a lot from them.

Working in the Senate is more than a fulltime job, but I am a father as well as a senator. Now I do go home sometimes.

Who makes your local paper?

By DENNIS FASSETT
ANP Managing Editor

What do Russell Tuttle, Chum Stockwell, Ernie Davis, Frank Rathbun, Bruce Young, Mavis Penn, Lonnie Parham, Leonard Folmar, Bob Beeny, Mildred Evans, Ed Bivins, Charles Riggs, and Pat Norton, have in common with Justine Barnes, Mike Rowland, Patricia Cullin, Ricky Balero, Carl Bodenmiller, Bill Oakley, Sylvia Kozorosky, and Glenn Shaw?

They are all people I have come to admire and respect over the past several years.

In many respects, these people have made my job here easier, more pleasant, and/or more difficult, but always more productive.

I owe them and a long list of others not mentioned, a large "thank you" for their support and assistance which I think considerably helped to improve The Eagle and Enterprise Roman.

While in large part, these people are from outside of these offices, it was their perspective of the community and its relationship with its local newspaper which provided the impetus for change.

Too often people involved in their communities are viewed as "nit-pickers," or worse, but in retrospect, our communities are the product of their collective nit-picking, and the local newspaper is not immune to their inputs.

It is a common lament around newspaper offices that we on the inside really have little idea what the reader really wants and needs in his or her paper.

While that concern is often on target, change to more accurately reflect the needs of the community is slow in coming, even when we are provided with the readers' input.

And so, it is for those reasons that the people on the above mentioned list, and many others like them, are so important to both community and the community's local newspaper.

If you excuse me while I engage in what may be construed as professional boasting, I think journalists and journalism are special.

Special because of the "trust" bestowed upon the people chosen for this awesome responsibility. Special because these people in this business must be both able to resist outside influence and bow to it.

And special because if they have survived in the trade for any length of time, they have learned to accomplish that difficult task.

Perhaps that is the reason change in newspapering comes so slowly. But, as long as the communities served by a paper are able to field their share of involved, caring citizens, willing to tell the often dubious journalist what is needed, newspapers will continue to grow with the community.

So, thanks again to those people who care enough about their towns to work to improve them. Because when they are working for their towns, they are also helping to improve their local newspapers.

Collection legislation introduced

By GARY OWEN
State Representative-22nd District

State regulation of collection agencies would be tightened under a bill I sponsored. The bill was passed unanimously by the House and is currently in committee in the Senate.

Michigan has for several years had a law which gives the Department of Licensing and Regulation authority to license and regulate collection agencies, including the supervision and enforcement of collection practices. The object was to give consumers as much protection as possible against unfair harassment or unethical and deceptive collection practices. However, experience has shown that there are a number of areas in which those protections could be strengthened.

For instance, existing law prohibits the use of deceptive or misleading communications with a debtor, such as threats of actions the collection agency cannot legally carry out; publishing a public list of debtors; employing an unlicensed person to collect claims; and harassment of the debtor.

The bill would add to the list of prohibited practices calling a person before 8:00 a.m. or after 9:00 p.m.; causing a telephone to ring continuously; engaging a person in telephone conversations repeatedly, continuously, at unusual times or in places inconvenient to the person, such as at work; communicating with a person about a debt by postcard; soliciting a postdated check to threaten or start court action on criminal charges; and depositing or threatening to deposit a postdated check before the date on the check.

The bill would require a collection agency, within five days of its first contact with a debtor, to provide the person with a written notice stating the amount of the debt, the name of the creditor to whom the debt is owed, and the date of the notice.

If the consumer disputed the debt or the amount of the debt, the collection agency would have to stop trying to collect the money until it had verified the debt and the amount and mailed the debtor a copy of the verification.

An agency could not advise an employer of a person's indebtedness, although it could provide the information if the employer asked for it.

Any money collected by an agency for a creditor would have to be deposited in an account within two banking days after it was received, which would be an additional safeguard for persons and businesses that use collection agencies.

Another important feature of the bill would require the state licensing of persons who repossess goods, which would work to prevent unethical or misleading practices by repossessors.

Under the bill, outstate-based collection agencies which do business in Michigan would have to have an office in Michigan, bringing them under state regulation.

The bill further spells out information a collection agency would be required by law to keep as a permanent record. The records would be audited by the Department of Licensing and Regulation.

The present law exempts those whose collection activities are limited to a business other than a collection agency, such as banks or other financial institutions who collect their own accounts. While the bill would not change this exemption, it would make such parties subject to prosecution if they used unlawful collection practices.

Many of the requirements of the bill are already followed by ethical collection agencies. However, there have been many consumer complaints and it would be best to strengthen the law for the benefit of all.

Although some may feel the bill is too strict, it is actually no more strict than current federal law.

The organizers committee to save Van Buren five could influence unfavorable decisions by the courts in future and pending cases.

The Van Buren five did not have to spend any time in jail if they had followed proper legal procedures.

I personally feel that any honorable person that would run for Judge Kaufman's position would not accept that type of contribution.

If this committee, with all its energy would apply it to the Edison Dam situation, it would be a contribution to this community.

Ask

Carol Premo

By CAROL PREMO, C.S.W.

Dear Carol,
Is it normal for a husband nearing age 60 to become impotent? To completely lose any physical interest in his own wife, but at the same time, never miss an opportunity to contact another female.
A physician states there is nothing physically wrong with the husband, even though he administered a series of injections and specialized vitamin combinations in case his diagnosis was mistaken. These have not helped at all; now even desire is absent, much less ability. Doctor says problem is psychological, but didn't recommend a specialist in that field. Why not?

Are these specialists for that problem? If so, how do we locate one? I realize I need to be in therapy also, and I am more than willing to do whatever I can to solve this problem, as it affects all other areas of our lives, causing great unhappiness and stress. It is like the adage of shipwrecked people, without drinking water, "Water, water all around, but not a drop to drink."
If you publish this problem, and suggest a solution, I'm sure you will be lifting a pall of unhappiness and discontent from many homes of couples who are sixtyish.
Thank you for any explanations or answers.

Hopefully,

Dear Hopefully,

Although it is not unusual for a person in his sixties to become impotent, it would fall within the category of sexual dysfunction. Sometimes, as people get older they give up their right to satisfy any sexual relationships. There are numerous reasons for this, but it is generally not necessary and the reasons are not based in solid reality.

There are specialists in the area of sexual dysfunction, however, I am going to suggest you try a more customary route first. Since your family doctor has ruled out physical disability and suggest psychological problems (I agree in view of his behavior toward other women and reluctance to touch you) it seems that marriage counseling might be the most appropriate place to start. Most qualified marital therapists can deal with sexual problems as well as problems in communication. If at first your husband won't go with you, go alone. A tremendous amount can sometimes be accomplished with just one partner.

For a list of qualified therapists in your area call the Michigan Association of Marriage Counselors at No. 644-2984. Don't hesitate to call a few till you find one you think you might like. Good luck.

Dear Carol,

I am a reasonably intelligent woman. I graduated from college a few years ago. My problem relates to math — any type of math floors me — check books, nail sizes, measuring windows for shades. This is really frustrating. This will also become a problem in my work, as more math is being required. What can I do about this math block?

Blocked

Dear Blocked,

You signed your letter very appropriately. It sounds as if that is just what you are in regards to math. Although we all have little blocks, anxieties or unreasonable fears it usually isn't too bothersome unless it interferes with our work or profession. For instance, eremophobia, a phobia (unreasonable fear) of being alone might be bothersome but becomes a real problem if the person wants to be an astronaut.

What do you do about it? Get therapy. Find out where, why, when you blocked, unblock and go on from there. I think you'll find it worth it. If you cannot afford private treatment you could try Catholic Social Services of Wayne County at No. 292-5690 or Cornerstone Counseling at No. 941-8380.

One other alternative, probably shorter and one I'm not familiar with is a program called Overcoming Math Anxiety and Math Competency Programs, Continuing Education, Oakland University, Rochester, Michigan 48063. The person to contact is Audrey Marriner.

If you opt for this alternative let me know what you think of it.

Reflections

A hot issue

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

Wood-burning stoves are regaining popularity, or so I read in this morning's paper.

An architect said that he had installed five wood-burning stoves in his hillside home, and he had cut his heating bills from $200 to $34, plus the warmth was remarkable compared to gas heat which kept his family cold all winter.

Ah! The warmth of those wood-burning stoves.

There is no better place in which to get dressed on a cold, snowy morning, than behind a big pot-bellied stove. One stands there with the warmth radiating from the stove and reflected by the wall, watching the snow swirling outside the windows and listening to the wind howling around the corners of the house, and the warmth seeps right through to every corner of the heart.

One of the most lasting memories of the wood-burning stove era was the year I was ten. We had moved to Grangeville, Idaho, a town at the top of the White Bird grade, a winding, twisting terrifying road leading over deep crevices, and steep mountain sides. We had gone there because my grandfather had died and my father was to settle his estate. He fell in love with the area and we lived there four years, exciting, beautiful, different years.

We were living in a big, brick house with huge fireplaces and a pot-bellied stove in the dining room.

One afternoon my sister and I took our sled over to the hill and joined the other sledgers as they streaked down the icy slope, the sled gaining momentum until the sledder was carried halfway down mainstreet. It was spine-tingling excitement, especially for a ten-year-old whose experience with a sled had been minimal.

All afternoon we streaked down that hill, and as the dusk began to settle, the sledgers, one by one, left for home. There was a strange excitement in me and even though my little sister begged to go home, I had to have that one last streak down the hill.

"I'm not going up," she sobbed through her stiffened lips. "I'm going home."

"I'll catch up with you," I promised and turning trudged up to the top. I was almost alone, but that wild sense of elation carried me in spite of my frozen toes, my frozen fingers, and my frost-nipped cheeks.

Looking down from the crest I could see the figure of my little sister plowing through the snow all alone; I could see the lights of the houses shining out on their white lawns, and my heart almost stopped when I saw that between me and the lights was a very dark, dark space through which I would have to go.

I was alone on the hill. Everyone else had gone down and I could hear their shouts of 'good night' ringing through the cold air. I lay down on my sled and gave myself a push. Faster and faster came the dark stretch. My heart pounded crazily and fear filled me. The crazy excitement had been replaced. I gritted my teeth and bent my head so I wouldn't see the darkness and in doing so lost control of the steering. A log leaped up from nowhere and I crashed.

Over and over I rolled until at last I reached almost to the bottom of the hill. I had lost my cap and my scarf and my mittens were soaking wet. Snow had spilled inside my coat and I felt it inching its way down my body. I was cold and scared and wet.

I picked myself up and forgetting the sled and everything else I had lost, I ran for home. The cold air cut through my lungs and froze the tears on my face, but at last I saw the light spilling out from home and I fell into the arms of my mother, who was half-mad and all worried about the kid who wasn't home.

Into the dining room she hustled me and behind the pot-bellied stove, where the warmth reached out and caressed me as she stripped my clothes from my shivering body.

My father opened the front of the stove and put some more wood in, and the shivering left me as I watched the bright flames leap out and cast eerily dancing images on the walls.

It was warm, and I was home.

On the Brighter Side

'The Ideal Wife'

By JIM BRADLEY

Okay, so I got a little sentimental. I'll admit it. I asked my wife the other day if she loved me.

"What is love?" was her philosophical reply. "How do you describe it and how can you tell if you're really in love?"

I certainly didn't expect all that — a simple "yes" would have been sufficient. But since she had delved into the ethereal and aesthetic, it caught me somewhat off guard.

So I leafed through a book of great quotations. "I know of no better definition of love than one given by Proust — 'Love is space and time measured by the heart,'" wrote Gian Carlo Menotti.

Archibald MacLeish wrote in Time Magazine in 1958: "Man can live his truth, his deepest truth, but he cannot speak it. It is for this reason that love becomes the ultimate human answer to the ultimate human question."

"Work and love — these are the basics. Without them there is neurosis," wrote Theodor Reik in 1957.

Well, since I have my share of work and love, I certainly didn't feel neurotic. But I did feel this was quite a philosophical question coming from my wife. Especially since she had defined love in a silly, humorous way early in our courtship.

At that time, she described love like this: "Love is something like a lizard, that wraps its tail around your heart and nibbles at your gizzard." I was under the "spell of love" at the time (oh impetuous youth!) so I was in no position to disagree. Besides, I thought the description fit pretty well.

The weighty subject of love and marriage penetrated our thoughts because we attended a party Saturday night to help a couple celebrate their 29th wedding anniversary. Ed and Leona Brackett, who attend our church in Westland, passed that historic endurance test, I mean milestone, and it was a joy for many of their friends to share the occasion with them and their three children.

Our son Jeff, whom I wrote about last week, came home from the hospital Friday night and attended Brackett's memorable 29th. In answer to the many readers who asked about Jeff's condition, he's doing just great — and thank you for asking.

After the anniversary party, I got to thinking that Pansy and I will celebrate our 25th wedding anniversary on June 4 this year. Just think, our silver anniversary! Or as Pansy puts it: "25 years with the wrong man." (She better be careful — it's her own judgment she's questioning!)

Pansy, Jeff and I went to Mr. Steak Restaurant Sunday morning after church to celebrate Jeff's return from his two-week stay in the hospital. While we were there, a waitress we know quite well — Peggy, by name — told us she was planning on getting married June 13. Weddings seemed to be the topic everywhere. And I couldn't help but think: Walking down the center aisle can certainly "altar" your life.

Then, as fate would have it, I was sitting in my den late Sunday night, cleaning out a drawer in my wooden desk. I came across a humorous writing entitled, "The Ideal Wife." It tells what every man expects — and then what he gets — in the way of a wife.

"WHAT EVERY MAN EXPECTS:

A woman always beautiful and cheerful who could have married movie stars but wanted only you...hair that never needs curlers or beauty shops...beauty that won't run in a rainstorm...never sick, just allergic to jewelry and fur coats.

A woman who insists that moving the furniture by herself is good for her figure...she's expert in cooking, cleaning house, fixing the car or TV, painting the house and keeping quiet.

Her favorite hobbies are mowing the lawn and shoveling snow. She hates credit cards...Her favorite expression is: "What can I do for you, Dear?"...She thinks you have Einstein's brain but look like Mr. America.

She wishes you would go out with the boys more often so she could get some sewing done...She loves you because you're so-o-o sexy."

That's what he expects.

"WHAT HE GETS:

A woman who speaks 140 words a minute with gusts up to 180...She once was a model for a totem pole...She's a light eater — as soon as it gets light, she starts eating.

Where there's smoke, there she is — cooking...She lets you know you only have two faults — everything you say and everything you do...No matter what she does, her hair looks like an explosion in a steel wool factory.

The last time she used a broom was to fly somewhere...If you get lost, open your wallet and she'll find you...She fights with the neighbors just to keep in practice until you get home."

You who are married, I'd like to know if you got what you expected. You who are planning that long walk down the center aisle in the future, remember one thing.

What you see is what you get. Just make sure you take a good long look before you tie the knot.

What's for lunch?

Menu entrees of Italian lasagna, cheeseburgers on buns, and meatball submarine sandwiches will be served in the cafeterias of the Van Buren public schools next week.

In the family style program at Savage, Tyler, West Willow, Quirk, and Elwell Elementary schools the menu Monday will be hot dogs on buns, baked beans, tossed salads with french dressing, pineapple, peaches, chilly things and milk.

Tuesday the cafeterias will be serving cold meat and cheese submarine sandwiches, tomato juice, pineapple juice, fruit gelatin mandarin oranges, cookies and milk, while slated for next Wednesday is a lineup of Italian lasagna, cauliflower, chopped broccoli, hot garlic bread, fruit gelatin, mixed fruit, bavarian pudding and milk.

Next Thursday students will be dining on pizza, buttered whole carrots, tossed salads with Italian dressing, fresh apples, cake and milk, with oven fried shrimp and clams, tator tots, cole slaw, celery and carrot sticks, apple juice, lemon drink, pudding and milk closing out the week.

In the other elementary schools the menu Monday will be cheeseburgers on buns, juice, tator rounds, chilly things and milk, followed by a lineup of soup and crackers, sloppy joes on buns, oven french fries, cookies and milk on Tuesday.

Next Wednesday the bill of fare will be Italian lasagna, served with side dishes of brussels sprouts or broccoli, hot garlic bread and butter, fruit gelatin, cake and milk.

Next Thursday's menu will include pizza, juice, vegetable, salad or cole slaw, fruit gelatin, pudding and milk, while topping off the week will be a menu of soup and crackers, fish on buns with tartar sauce, tator rounds, gelatin and milk.

In the junior and senior high schools the menu Monday will be chili dogs or grilled ham and cheese sandwiches, juice, french fries, pineapple tossed salads and milk, while on tap for Tuesday is a lineup of tacos or Coney Island foot-longs, tossed salads, french fries, peaches, fruit gelatin, cake and milk.

Next Wednesday the cafeterias will be serving lasagna or hot club sandwiches, cole slaw, french fries, mandarin oranges, pears, hot garlic bread and milk, while slated for next Thursday are pizza or Belleville burgers, tossed salad, green beans, tator tots, mixed fruit, apple crisp and milk.

Rounding out the week will be a menu of fried chicken or meatball submarine sandwiches, mashed potatoes, brussels sprouts, french fries, buttered beets, fresh apples and milk.

UHT Memorial Funeral Home

HAROLD REDISKE JR.

Is it wise to plan my own funeral?

It was the Earl of Warwick who said there is nothing more certain than death and nothing more uncertain than the time of dying. He would be prepared for death at all times, he states, and his preparedness would not make make him die the sooner, but the better.

This individual insight is very enlightening and practical. We have pre-planned funerals with many members of our community who share some of these same sentiments. Many have expressed great relief in their foresightedness. They say it's a comfort to know everything will be well-handled, and will cost no less and no more than you want it to be.

Rather than permit a third party to arrange things or cause your loved ones the anguish and painful burden of funeral details, you may wish to plan your own funeral down to the smallest details.

Professional assistance

There are no amateurs on our staff. We are professionals in funeral service. Our experience provides you with advance counsel in your own best interests. Our aim is your comfort. Call or stop by for details - we can provide you with a variety of plans to suit your cost and personal requirements.

Cage title is up for grabs in Western 6

Churchill upsets sluggish Canton, 51-38

Chairman of the board

Howard Monk, Plymouth Salem's 6-foot-6 center, is making his presence felt more and more in the Suburban 8 League race this year. Monk, who was anything but "cloistered", roamed both ends of the court in Sa'em's 47-39 victory over Livonia Bentley Friday night. The talented senior dropped in 23 points and was "Chairman of the board" in dominating both backboards. Here Monk grabs a defensive rebound in the first half over the outstretched arms of guard Craig Evans, who scored 11 points, and 6-4 Bulldog center John Bednarski, in the win that left Salem atop the league with a 5-0 record.

Plymouth Canton, the pre-season Western Six Conference basketball title pick, is finding the going rough. Canton ran up against a tenacious Livonia Churchill defense which held the Chiefs to 12 field goals and garnered a 51-38 victory over Coach Craig Bell's Chiefs.

The Churchill victory jammed three teams into second place — Canton and Harrison are sharing the runner-up berth with the Livonians. The trio — each with 3-2 records — is looking up at Waterford Mott which has won all five of its first round conference games.

"However, I don't think that Mott will remain undefeated," said Churchill Coach FGred Price. "They have had the home court advantage while we have played nine of 10 games on the road. The game against Canton was our first home game."

Churchill will get another shot at Mott which eluded the Livonians the first time around with a late rally that lifted them to a close win.

"Mott has played four of its five conference games at home," Price continued, "and I'm sure it'll be quite different when they hit the road."

Churchill played a super defensive game against Canton, the defending conference champ. The Livonians shot their way to a 17-8 first period lead and held the edge 30-21 at halftime. The struggling Canton quintet couldn't find the mark after intermission and was outscored 12-7 in the third period.

"I felt that Canton had its problems with our zone defense," Price pointed out. "We jammed their inside game and concentrated on Visser (Dave)."

Visser, a 6-5 forward who handles the ball a lot, was held to 13 points, the only player to hit in double figures for the champs.

In the meantime, Churchill got an outstanding all-around performance from Dave Kerstin who pumped in 19 points while teammate Ron Schueneman added 12.

Churchill shot 48 percent from the floor and hit on 13 of 19 from the free throw line. Canton made a dismal 12 of 48 from the field for 25 percent. The Chiefs collected 14 of 18 at the foul line.

The victory also was the fifth in 11 starts for Churchill which played out-of-league rival Farmington on Tuesday.

'Another must' for Cherry Hill

Spartans take on Crestwood for first place

The Sports Meridian

A couple of newsworthy cage events

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

"Strange," said the caller, "that something so newsworthy should slip past the local newspaper without any comment at all."

The caller was from Romulus. He wondered aloud why we had missed the important story about Johnny Long, the former Romulus High all-state cager who went on to fame and success at University of Detroit and with the Detroit Pistons.

Long was honored as "Piston of the Year" by the March of Dimes, joining the coveted ranks of such greats as M. L. Carr, last year's award recipient, and Bob Lanier who has been honored as such in the past.

"I got to admit," the caller continued, "you don't miss much. But, somewhere along the line of communications, something must have gone wrong."

Nope, just didn't have the space, my friend, a chronic malaise in these parts in January.

But, indeed, if anyone deserves the honor as "Piston of the Year" — Johnny Long does.

Born in 1956, he was a second round draft pick by the Pistons in 1978 and many scoffed then head coach, Dick Vitale, for picking his former player from U of D.

Long has proven his and Vitale's critics wrong.

Starting out his college career as a forward at U-of-D, Long was switched to a pro guard. He has appeared in all 82 Piston games, starting 60 of those times. He scored in double figures 72 times, second only to last year's March of Dimes player of the year, Carr.

Carr made it into double figures 75 times as a Piston a year ago. Long is also one of four Pistons who had more than 100 steals to give credence to the fact that he can be tough on defense.

Before donning a Piston jersey, Long set a U of D record when he reached 20 points or more 26 times as a Titan. He's deadly at the foul line where he has a .826 percent accuracy.

Another landmark goal was reached this week by one of our veteran cage coaches without much fanfare.

And we should give due notice to the occurrence.

Fred Thomann, who is in his eighth year as Plymouth Salem's cage coach, passed the 200-victory mark last week, "and didn't even know it," says staffer Jim Bradley.

"I asked him how many games he won over the years," Bradley said, "and Fred said he didn't know and said he would check back with me."

The result: on January 15, 1980, Thomann posted his 200th win, a victory over Redford Union. Subsequently his Rocks went on to beat Trenton and Livonia Bentley.

With six straight Suburban 8 Conference basketball championships behind him and on the verge of wrapping up his seventh title at Salem, Thomann has proved that in basketball defense is as precious as the metal, "gold."

And in an era where the gunner and the runner reigns supreme, Thomann has kept the envisionsaries of the sport on the edge of their seats with his philosophy that defense and not offense wins games.

Fred should be careful — they might call him before the rulers of the court and try him for heresy.

A 59-52 victory over Garden City West coupled with an upset by Melvindale over Dearborn Heights Crestwood put Cherry Hill atop of the Tri-River Conference basketball standings this week.

But Coach Dave Bogataj's Spartans have to share the first place status with Melvindale and Crestwood. They'll meet the Dearborn Heights quintet Friday night at home as the second round of league competition gets under way.

"They (Crestwood) beat us over there," said Bogataj whose team is sporting an 9-2 over-all and a 5-2 league record. "This game is obviously a very important one for us."

"If we don't hand them a loss now, we'll have to reply on someone else — and that'll be tough," Bogataj conceded.

Cherry Hill had its problems with West which refused to quit and kept in the game until the last few minutes. Ahead by a slim one-point (13-12), Cherry Hill took a 27-24 advantage into the lockerroom and, after the half, wasn't able to shake their stubborn hosts despite a 9-point edge in the third period.

"We couldn't get our lead into double figures," Bogataj said. "West is a tall and rugged team and we couldn't get the second or third shots, despite the fact we shot well for the evening."

Cherry Hill hit 55 percent from the floor and made 5 of 7 free throws.

The Spartans received 17 points from Aaron Gregory, who shared the game's individual scoring honors with West's 6-3 center, Dave Seger. Also in two figures for the winners were Gary Williams and

Belleville, Bentley in Sub 8 showdown

"Livonia Bentley is good — but I feel that we are just a little bit better."

That's how Belleville High swim Coach Sam Vicchy summed up his team's pending showdown with Bentley, the defending Suburban 8 Conference champ.

Belleville, a team that has never won a league championship in the tough Sub. 8, needs this win if the Tigers' dreams of a championship are to be realized.

Belleville will serve as host for the Thursday evening confrontation and a standing room only crowd is expected to be on hand. The Tigers will also be placing an untarnished 10-0 record on the block.

Belleville's latest victim, Plymouth Salem, succumbed 100-72 as the Tigers swept nine out of a possible 11 events. Mark Schofield and Mike Stoelton accounted for four of the victories and also competed on winning relay teams.

Schofield turned in a 2:09.0 in picking up the 200 yard individual medley and posted a 1:04.9 to chalk up the 100-yard breaststroke. Stoelton coasted to a 22.7 for the 50-yard free-style and his 50.5 was the best time for the 100-yard freestyle.

Wayne cagers make it 3 in a row

Riding the momentum of a victory over a highly-respected Wyandotte team, Wayne Memorial bumped off Taylor Truman 56-47 Friday night and buried Riverview 79-42 for their third successive Great Lakes 8 Conference basketball victory.

And, coupled with previously undefeated Monroe's capitulation to Wyandotte, the conference title race is wide open. As the week got underway, Fordson had the lead (8-1), followed by Monroe (7-1) and Wayne moved into sole possession of third place (6-3), followed by Taylor Center (5-3), Lincoln Park (3-6), Wyandotte (3-6), Taylor Truman (2-6) and Riverview (0-8).

Wayne will clash with Taylor Center Friday night at home and Coach Steve Schwartz' Zebras need the victory in order to keep their title hopes alive.

"Anything can happen in this league this year," Schwartz noted. "And I feel the first top four teams know that."

Schwartz said he was concerned before the Truman game because "we had three straight days of final examinations and I feared we might come out flat."

That didn't happen. Wayne gained a 15-9 first period edge over Truman. Truman cut that margin to 27-19 at halftime and went into the lead in the third period as Inkster transfer, Ernest Carter, pumped in six of his 10 points to stake the Eagles to a 35-32 edge.

Wayne blew the game wide open in the final eight minutes as they outscored their rivals 24-12 thanks to Russ Coleman who fired in six of his 10 points then.

"We also switched our defenses in those final minutes from a two-man front to a three-man and they apparently couldn't adjust and made some crucial turnovers," Schwartz said.

Three Wayne cagers — Darryl Jordan, Rick Rogers and Russ Coleman reached double figures with Jordan's 12 standing up as tops for the team. The Zebras also made good on 12 of 19 free throws.

Fourteen Wayne players scored in the Zebras' lopsided 79-42 victory over Riverview, a team that Wayne will be seeing for the last time. (Riverview is scheduled to drop out of the league and join the Huron Conference in the fall).

Coleman again led the scorers with 12 points, with Jordan and Rogers splitting 20 points.

Romulus gives Willow Run a scare

Willow Run, the No. 1 ranked Class B high school basketball team in the state this year, escaped from Romulus with a 71-59 victory.

But the Flyers had to sweat to earn that win.

With less than five minutes left in the game the top-ranked Willow Run quintet had a narrow one-point margin over Coach Rod Hanna's Eagles.

"We missed a key basket, a layup, that I feel would have changed the tempo of the game," Coach Hanna said. "If we had made it we would have gone into a different kind of defense."

Willow Run grabbed a 16-12 first period lead despite the heroics of Darryl Lewis, Dave Casey and Bobby Stewart who provided most of the Eagles' scoring power.

Trailing 37-26 after two periods, Romulus came alive in the third quarter as the Eagles outscored their visitors 20-12 in that eight minute span. Bernardi Williams then drilled in eight of his game high 24 points in the closing minutes, to pull the Flyers out of their nosedive.

"I felt we played an exceptional defensive game against them," Hanna offered. "The game was close and I felt we lost this one at the free throw line on some questionable calls by the officials."

Willow Run cashed in on 15 of 22 attempts at the line while Romulus picked up seven of 12 free throws.

Casey, who has been getting the job done at both ends of the court, finished with 16 points, one less than Lewis who was highman for the Eagles. Tricky Stewart pumped in seven field goals for 14 points.

The Flyers countered with Williams' 24 points, made on nine direct hits from the field and a 6-of-7 performance at the charity stripe. John Bailey and Keith Jackson, the Flyers' two 6-5 forwards, were held to 16 and 10 points, respectively.

Franklin gets 2nd look at R.U.

Redford Union, the only team to beat league-leading Livonia Franklin in the Northwest Suburban Conference this year, will try Friday night to prove the controversial triumph was no fluke.

And Franklin, which will have the home court advantage the second time around, needs the win to remain atop of the league.

The first encounter between the two teams ended in a debate about the officiating and Coach Jim McIntyre went on record to say that his Livonians were the victims of poor officiating.

"Our kids haven't forgotten about that game," said Coach McIntyre after his Patriots destroyed pre-season title favorite, North Farmington, 59-37. "I feel we will be ready for them."

North has not lived up to its pre-season billing. The Farmington quintet scored only four points in the second period as the Franklin press forced their rivals into numerous turnovers.

At the half Franklin enjoyed a pleasant 29-13 lead and McIntyre was able to sub at will. The Patriots came back and outdueled their foes 11-8 and 19-16 the final two periods.

"Hey, I'm really proud of these kids," said McIntyre. "We've jelled into an outstanding defensive unit and we score when we need the key points. We only gave them 12 field goals."

Tim Prsysecki, who teamed with Jeff Weber to control the backboards, came up with 14 points, good enough for top scoring honors for the game. Jon McCarthy chipped in 10 for the Patriots who shot 49 percent from the floor and canned 13 of 20 at the foul line.

Weber had 17 rebounds to go along with his four points.

Earlier in the week Franklin turned back cross-town rival, Churchill, 56-48, as Weber tallied 19 points, Bob Gohl counted 13 while McCarthy and Doug White split 20 points.

Brian Kersten and Ken Black each had 10 points for the Chargers.

Zebras host Fordson on Tuesday

Wayne dunks Truman

Riding the crest of a three-meet Great Lakes 8 Conference swim winning streak, Wayne Memorial will travel to Taylor Center on Thursday to tune up for a crucial Tuesday night engagement with Fordson.

"Our kids are improving," said Wayne Coach Jim McPartlin, "and I feel that if we continue to do so that we will be an excellent team before the end of the season."

Wayne had little problem with Taylor Truman as the Zebras coasted to a 132-39 triumph behind 10 of a possible 11 first places.

McPartlin received an excellent effort from Steve Matheny who claimed the 200-yard freestyle event with a 1:53.6 performance and stashed away the 500-yard freestyle thanks to a 5:18.1 finish.

Wayne diver Dave Logan looked good in the boards as he led a sweep in that event. Logan amassed 184.2 points for his first place while teammates Bob Swain and Tim Harris finished second and third respectively.

Meet results: Wayne Memorial 132, Taylor Truman 39

Romulus North signs up LL ball players

Romulus North Little League will hold its 1980 Baseball registration on Saturday, February 2, from 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. at the Romulus Library.

Boys and girls, living north of I-94 are eligible to play in the summer league. Players must be between the ages of 8 and 18 before August 1, 1980. Potential players must bring a parent and a birth certificate at time of registration. Registration donation is $20.00 per family. Further information can be obtained by calling Gayle Vernatt, League Secretary at 722-6438.

This year's baseball games will be played at the two new fields completed last year at the Romulus North Baseball Complex. These two fields are complete with grass infields and outfield and each has a modern electronic scoreboard. An additional three fields are planned and the completion cost is estimated at $250,000.

Residents and businessmen are urged to join in the drive to raise the necessary funds for completion. Information about this project can be obtained by telephoning League President, Jack Moores at 941-0532.

The University of Detroit is sponsoring a Little League night and has agreed to donate 400 tickets to the Romulus North Little League. The League will give these tickets to the first 100 families that register on February 2, 1980.

Armstrong-Hollandsworth united at St. Michael's

Nuptial vows and wedding bands were exchanged Nov. 24 between Sandra Hollandsworth and Timothy Armstrong, both of Romulus. The six o'clock ceremony was conducted by Pastor Allan J. Braun at St. Michael Lutheran Church in Wayne before some 150 assembled relatives and friends.

The bride, who lived at 6545 Merriman, Romulus, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Hollandsworth of 8926 Hannan Rd., Wayne, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kahl of Seminole, Fla. The bridegroom's parents are Mrs. Helen Armstrong of 8085 Hannan Rd., Romulus, and Robert D. Armstrong of Mancelona.

The bride and her father entered the aisle to the processional, "A Mighty Fortress is Our God" played on the organ by Kathy Taylor. Other music included duets by Carolyn Weidmayer and Florence Glosson who sang "The Wedding Song" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Holding a bouquet of white and yellow roses interspersed with baby's breath, the bride was gown in white chiffon over satin designed with a high lace collar above an illusion sweetheart neckline frosted with a beaded lace medallion. Other styling details on the dress were long sheer sleeves cuffed in lace and a full flounced skirt which cascaded into a chapel train.

Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was trimmed in lace to match the little beaded cap to which it was attached.

Catherine Jean Jones of Romulus, the bridegroom's sister, served as honor attendant in a full-length turquoise gown fashioned with a spaghetti strap bodice which was topped with a short sheer jacket with lace-trimmed cape sleeves.

She carried a bouquet of mixed blooms accented with baby's breath and tucked a single flower and sprig of baby's breath in her hair.

Bridesmaids in identical dresses were Catherine Anne Hollandsworth of Wayne and Judy Ann Brent of Romulus, sisters of the bridal couple.

Flowergirl was Jo Ellen Joyce Webster of Belleville, the bride's 3-year-old niece and the daughter of the David Websters of Belleville. Her little turquoise frock, in toe-touching length with a large white lace collar, was complimented by a basket of mixed flowers with touches of baby's breath.

The bridegroom chose his brother-in-law, William Lee Jones of Romulus, to carry out the duties of best man. Ushers were PFC John Allen Hollandsworth, the bride's brother from Huntsville, Ala., and Henry Edward Grajek of Wayne.

Four-year-old David Michael Doyle, the son of the Michael Doyles of Montpelier, Ohio, was ringbearer at his aunt's wedding.

At the dinner-dance reception, which followed at the VFW Hall in Romulus, the bride's mother greeted the 200 guests in a formal peach gown with a long companion coat. Her corsage was comprised of yellow rosebuds and baby's breath. A similar arrangement in pink was pinned to the rose-colored gown which the bridegroom's mother chose for the occasion.

Following a weekend honeymoon in the bridal suite of the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn, the newlyweds took up residence in their new home at 9406 Tobine Rd., Romulus.

The new Mrs. Armstrong, a 1975 graduate of Belleville High School, is employed at Hope Picture and Frame Company in Livonia. Her husband, an employee of the Ford Truck Plant in Wayne, is a 1975 alumnus of Romulus High School.

The wedding rehearsal party, hosted by the bridegroom, was held at Little Caesar's.

"Quiet Pilgrimage" by Elizabeth Vining. Born in Philadelphia shortly after the turn of the century, the author recalls those days with affection and candor as she describes the joys and rigors of an old-fashioned upbringing. There are portraits of her family — especially of her sister — which are touching and succinct, and memorable reflections on her college years at Bryn Mawr. Here, too, is her own moving account of a brief, idyllic marriage that ended in tragedy. She tells of her search for a center of gravity and her decision to join the Society of Friends. Her appointment, just after World War II as tutor to Crown Prince Akihito, gave a new dimension and direction to her life.

"The Generous Years" by Chet Huntley. The generous years of which Chet Huntley writes began just before the First World War and reached into the mid-twenties. For these were the years of Huntley's growing up on one of America's last frontiers — the prairies and towns of Montana at the time when traffic accidents were caused by run-away horses and education meant the one-room schoolhouse.

Bethany group has mass, meal

Bethany Belleville met at the home of Marcelle Matthews on Sunday, Jan. 20, with a home mass highlighting the get-together. The group, which is comprised of separated and divorced people, then took the time to lend a listening ear or talk about their feelings.

A potluck supper and watching the Super Bowl while their children played games completed the evening.

Bethany Belleville meets the third Saturday of each month at 8 p.m. in the cafeteria of St. Anthony's School. It is an affiliate of the Family Life Bureau of the Archdiocese of Detroit.

Any divorced or separated individual is invited to attend the monthly sessions and you need not be Catholic to participate.

For further information, call Oliver Avery, president, at 699-4058 or Marcelle Matthews, hostess, at 699-3419.

They'll marry this summer

OLDHAM-HINDMAN

Arthur and Sally Oldham of 38102 Walnut Dr., Romulus, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Lori Susan, to Alan Hindman of Hannan Road, Romulus.

The future bride is a graduate of Romulus High School currently working at Romulus City Hall.

She and her fiancé, who is employed at Healthy Jones Bakery in Southfield, are planning an August wedding.

SIMONDS-CONWAY

The engagement of their daughter, Lynn A. Simonds, and James E. Conway is announced by Mr. and Mrs. Olin W. Simonds Jr. of 45255 Sunrise Lane, Belleville.

The bride-elect, who resides at 11506 St. Aloysius, Romulus, is an alumna of Bridgeport High School and a magna cum laude graduate of Wayne State University where she earned her bachelor of fine arts degree. She also was the award recipient of the Senior Student Arts Exhibition at WSU in 1975. She currently is working with her father in the family business, Bilmar's Supermarket in Romulus.

The prospective bridegroom, the son of Mrs. Francis P. Conway of 6779 Marvin, Taylor, graduated from Aquinas High School and holds an associate of science degree from Henry Ford Community College. An employee of Masco Corporation in Taylor, he presently is working toward a mechanical engineering degree at HFCC.

The young couple plan a June 21 altar date.

MISS OLDHAM

MISS SIMONDS

March 7 wedding planned

Debora Ann Nieman and Mark David Myhand are engaged and making plans for a March 7 wedding. Announcement of the young couple's engagement and altar date comes from Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Nieman of 49230 Bemis Rd., Belleville, parents of the bride-to-be. A registered nurse who earned her degree at Bronson Methodist Hospital School of Nursing in Kalamazoo, Miss Nieman is employed at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne. She and her fiancé, the son of Mrs. Richard Chase of 50333 Willis Rd., Belleville, are both graduates of Lincoln High School. He currently is attending Eastern Michigan University as a computer science major. St. Luke's Lutheran Church in Ann Arbor has been reserved for the late winter ceremony.

International dinner planned by BPW Club

The next meeting of the Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club (BPW) will be held Feb. 4 beginning with dinner at 6:30 p.m. at Faith United Methodist Church in Denton.

The Foundation Committee comprised of Vira McGrange, Audrey McKee, Alice Brady, Barbara Buckbee, Beverly Rozanski and Irene Christie, chairman, will be in charge. The program theme will be "Looking Beyond Borders" as members celebrate International Week Feb. 17-23 and promote awareness of the world wide status of women. Fifty years ago Lena Madesin Phillips traveled to Europe to organize the working women into an international federation and did just that!

On Jan. 26, four area seminars concentrating on personal development topics, will be held to replace the traditional January state board meeting. Several BPW members were to have attended a Lansing session.

International dinner reservations for the Feb. 4 regular meeting may be made with Irene Christie at 482-5620 from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. or by calling 525-4614 after 5:15 p.m. Guests are welcome.

potpourri

By LEESMITH
Suburban Living Editor

A really bubbly, enthusiastic telephone call this evening helped set the mood for this week's intro into "potpourri."

Carol, our prospective teacher who's now mid-way through her junior year at college, called to wish us bon voyage and to further embellish her recent letter.

(Hey, Carlo (and that's not a type-O), I hope you won't mind my taking the liberty of repeating some of our conversation. You made our day end on such a happy note that I just have to share your optimism with others who might be contemplating teaching as a career.)

Having started her classroom participation (she's been assigned to a third grade at Kalamazoo's Brucker Elementary) our gal is truly ecstatic over the chance to actually get in there and communicate! Today, she told us, included the novelty of teaching how to tell time (using her own methods), assisting with reading and learning that kids really compete for individual attention.

And probably because their own teacher is a "Mrs.," Carol has been dubbed "Mrs. Smith" by the youngsters.

She's already received her "first kiss" from a little guy, Tommie, who "wanted to tell her something" then laid a furtive little smack on her cheek—much to the amusement of his peers. "Now we'll have to call you Mrs. Mahoney," they all giggled.

In her last letter, Carol (who's never wanted to do anything else BUT teach) affirmed her choice by saying, "When I came home that first day, I was completely high! I couldn't be more sure of anything in my life. Just seven short hours made me ache for my own classroom, I love it so much."

And if you'll allow me to sound off like a typical biased mother, I'd like to add that the class that eventually gets that girl for a teacher is going to be one mighty lucky bunch.

Even when she was just a little girl — at family reunions, for instance — she would gather all the little kids and conduct games and other entertainment. And we used to kiddingly say, "Carol and her kindergarten." She's a natural!!

EVER WONDER where the term ice cream "sundae" had its birth? Well, its terminology dates way back to the 1880's when Massachusetts passed a statute forbidding the Sunday sale of "exhilarating beverages" (including sodas!). Loath to lose business, one stubborn store owner began selling soda-less "soda". He ingeniously added other delectable ingredients to compensate . . . and the popular variations were known as "sundaes" because that's the day they were sold!

And here's a bit more about the "all-American" favorite — About 10 years earlier, American children listened for the "hokey pokey man", meaning the street vendor who sold what they called "hokey pokey", or ice cream. Americans of all ages have always doted on this treat . . . even George Washington who had his own "cream machine" and Dolly Madison whose "pink ice cream centerpieces" at White House dinners were the talk of the land.

The confection, though, is far older than the country — for "water ices" were invented by the CHINESE some 3,000 years ago. One of the most popular treasures brought back by Marco Polo was the recipe! American ingenuity did, however, come up with "embellishments" — often out of necessity! Like the time the ice cream vendor at the 1904 St. Louis World's Fair ran out of dishes . . . he swiftly twisted pastry into "cones"! Ice cream sodas were already popular and they, in turn, led to that seventh-day invention — the ice cream sundae!

When we get together as a family (and it's too seldom anymore) we six adults often talk about hypothetical situations, the subjects usually stemming from whatever we're discussing at the time.

And if, perchance, you're having a party and the conversation suddenly is dying a slow death, throw in one of the following questions and see how things liven up!

For instance, — if you could choose any eight people (alive or dead) to make up a really interesting dinner table, who would you pick? (Some of our own replies were rather surprising and in depth.)

If you were on death's row and were selecting your very last meal, of what would it consist? (I really can't imagine anyone being particularly interested in food at a time like that, but don't forget — you are imagining! Or what about an invitation to Fantasy Island — what would your secret desire be?

It can be MOST fascinating . . . give it a try sometime if there's a void in the chit chat.

With Valentine's Day in the not too distant future, we've a special molded goodie which a Belleville reader sent us. Our recipe donor, who wants to remain anonymous, says this one takes very nicely to a heart-shaped mold and can be served as a dessert or a salad. Use either a two-pint form or two 1-pint molds.

VALENTINE DESSERT OR SALAD

- 1 envelope plain gelatin
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sugar
- few grains salt
- $\frac{3}{4}$ cup hot water
- 1 can crushed pineapple (8 oz.) (undrained)
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup whipping cream
- 2 bananas
- one-third cup chopped walnuts

Soften gelatin in lemon juice. Dissolve gelatin, sugar and salt in hot water. Blend in crushed pineapple and cool to consistency of unbeaten egg white. Fold in whipped cream, sliced banana and walnuts. Turn into molds and chill until firm. A bit of red food coloring may be added to the mixture when folding in whipping cream if you'd like to stay with the Valentine colors. If not you might garnish your dessert or salad with spiced crabapples or spiced apple rings.

THE BOTTOM LINE: The average person these days is a guy who was born in the country, worked hard so he could live in the city, then worked even harder to get back to the country.

Valentine dance coming up

The Altar Society of St. Anthony's Church will usher in February with a Sweetheart Dance planned in honor of St. Valentine's Day. Dance chairman Madeline Pellegrini (left) and ticket chairman Virginia Carnahan invite the public to the Feb. 9 social affair which will be held in the Foltz Building adjacent to the church on West Columbia Avenue. Music for the dance will be provided by The Tune Mixers.

Newcomers on the scene

"Jennifer Rose" is the title given to the new daughter born Dec. 31 to Richard and Sherry Visingardi of 48490 Edgar St., Belleville.

The couple's second child, the infant made her debut at 1:52 p.m. New Year's Eve at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne, her records showing that she weighed 7 lbs.-2 ozs. and measured 20 $\frac{3}{4}$ inches.

The new little tax deduction is the sister of 2-year-old Richard James Visingardi and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Visingardi and Mr. and Mrs. Onis Smith, all of Belleville.

Hearing the news of their newest great-grandchild were Kentucky residents, Mr. and Mrs. Omar Smith and Mrs. Joe Thacker; Grosse Ileite Max Morrison and Floridian, Domonic Visingardi.

Jennifer's mother is the former Sherry Smith.

Marla Jean Greenwell, who's three-and-a-half years old, has a new baby brother and she's happily sharing the news of his Jan. 8 arrival.

The new heir, born to Brian Edward and Lisa Anne Greenwell of 2657 Hampshire, Ann Arbor, not only was named for his father but had the same weight and measurements — 6 lbs.-8 ozs. and 19 $\frac{1}{2}$ inches.

Brian Edward Jr. made his way into the world at 1:09 p.m. at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor with Dr. Barbara Hooberman presiding at his birth.

The baby's maternal grandparents are John and Barbara Richards of Detroit and Don and Mary Ann Greenwell of Farmington. His mother is the former Lisa Anne Richards and his father works in supervision at Hydra-Matic Division of General Motors in Ypsilanti.

"It's a boy" is the good news being announced these mid-winter days by Michael Peter Grybas and his wife, the new mother Debra May Grybas, of 9427 Biddle St., Romulus.

Born at 3:06 a.m. Jan. 13 at Oakwood Hospital in Dearborn, Gregory Michael weighed in at 7 lbs.-12 ozs. and measured 21 inches.

The infant is the grandson of Mrs. Ida May Palmer of Romulus and Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Grybas of Plymouth. Great-grandparent honors go to Mrs. Anna Grybas of Taylor and Mrs. Marcella Rufus of Plymouth.

Gregory's mother is the former Debra May Palmer.

The first baby of the new year in the Romulus community arrived at 3:30 a.m. Jan. 1 at Oakwood Hospital in Dearborn. The 5-pound infant, who as named Sean Eric Hornyak, is the son of Joyce Hornyak and John Kuzmish, both of Romulus.

Grandparents of the newcomer are the Dennis Hornyaks and the John Kuzmishes, all of Romulus.

Great-grandparents include the Donald Lonsers of Ft. Pierce, Fla.; the Edward Hornyaks of Dearborn Heights; the Claude Swaffers and Mary Kuzmish.

Activities slated at Romulus Library

Pre-school story hours will begin Feb. 7 at the Romulus Public Library at 11121 Wayne Road. They will be held at 10:30 a.m. Thursday mornings and will continue until April 3.

Tuesday night family movies will be shown starting Feb. 5. The programs will begin at 7 p.m. and will feature the following Jacques Cousteau movies:

Feb. 5 — "500 Million Years Beneath the Sea" and "The Flight of the Penguins".

Feb. 11 — "The Green Sea Turtle" and "The Return of the Sea Elephants".

Feb. 19 — "Seals" and "Sharks".

Feb. 26 — "The Singing Whale" and "Sunken Treasure".

March 4 — "The Tragedy of the Red Salmon" and "The Unsinkable Sea Otter".

March 11 — "The Water Planet" and "Whales".

Since the library will be closed for Lincoln's birthday on Feb. 12, the second film will be shown on Monday, Feb. 11. There is no admission charge for any of the movies.

Saturday crafts will be held Feb. 9, 16 and 23 and will pertain to the various holidays during the month. School-age children are welcome to the sessions which will begin at 10:30 a.m.

Further information may be obtained by calling 941-0775.

YW plans annual meet

Festivities will get underway at 6:30 p.m. Feb. 7 for the 36th annual dinner meeting of the YWCA of Western Wayne County, according to Mary Kate Maltesta of Canton Township, chairperson for the evening and second vice-president of

Financial management class set

Washtenaw Community College is offering a weekly class for women who are single, separated, widowed or divorced beginning on Feb. 5 from 7-9 p.m. and continuing for the following nine Tuesday evenings. The class, "Financial Management for Women in Transition," has been devised to provide expert help meeting the financial management needs of single women heads of household. Child care will be provided.

Among the topics to be discussed include budgeting and record keeping, credit, income taxes, assertiveness, time management, estate planning, shopping, saving and investing, health and community resources which are available. Experts including attorneys and CPA's are among those leading the weekly class sessions.

The class, offered for $25, is being held in Room 304 of the College's Ypsilanti Center at 210 East Cross Street. Advanced registration is requested by phoning WCC staff at (313) 482-2230.

the YW board.

Keynote speaker Loma May, vice-president of the Jim Handy organization, will speak on "Challenge". Ms. May comes to the YW fresh from a month-long crossing of the United States in a van, on assignment with a film crew.

Ms. May is director of the General Motors Minority Dealers Academy, a member of the Forty-Niners (a women pilots organization), Detroit Zonta and, when time permits, a management instructor at the Detroit College of Business. She also is a candidate for the Western YW's Board of Directors.

If Loma isn't enough to make an exciting annual meeting, board president Violet Forbush of Inkster and first vice-president Henrietta Jenks of Dearborn will get some attention as they make the surprise announcements of the YW Woman and Y-Teen of the Year. Each will be awarded a sterling monogrammed pin.

Lois Rice, volunteer leadership chairperson from Livonia, will give special recognition to the YW Westland Women's Employment Center and the volunteers who make it work with director Kathy Sheffery of Westland.

Other active committee people are Iretta Boluch, Dearborn Heights; Judy Persia, Taylor; Kim Linton, Romulus; Madelyn Lee, Maratha Dickson and Jenny Keown, Inkster; Michele Jacquin and Wendy Guild, Dearborn.

To make reservations for the dinner call the YWCA at 561-4110.

For its New Company

Repertory Theatre holds tryouts

The Black Sheep Repertory Theatre will return to production with an exciting new season in April. Under the leadership of its new Artistic Director, James Martin, the Theatre will then introduce its New Company in residence.

Private auditions are being held February 2 and 3 to select Company members.

Artists will be asked to perform a classical monologue, a modern monologue, and a song. Audition time is limited to ten minutes. Callbacks will be held the following week.

The New Company of the Black Sheep Repertory Theatre is dedicated to the production of plays reflecting American values and traditions as well as the great classics of the world theatre. The purpose of such an enterprise is to bring entertainment of a high quality to the surrounding community. We propose a commitment to excellence of performance in the presentation of provocative and exciting theatre.

The theatre is, by definition, a community institution. It is a social forum of ideas, emotions and beliefs. The theatre in America has floundered and died out in many areas due to a separation from the soil. The historical building of the Black Sheep Repertory Theatre represents old traditions of the theatre in this area. Now the media has separated us, isolated us, decreasing our need for social interaction. We go to our jobs, perform the necessary functions and then go home to our TV sets. The joy in our lives has become harder and harder to obtain.

Theatre, the most social of all artistic forms, must respond to the movements of our society. The notion that art and culture can only exist in major metropolitan areas is erroneous. The growth and support of small professional theatres with high standards in sub-regional communities is the way of the future. The New Company of the Black Sheep Repertory Theatre, dedicated and supported by a sub-regional community, can continue to be a source of pride and profit to the area.

For further information, you may call the Black Sheep Repertory Theatre offices at (313) 428-9287 between 9 AM and 5 PM, daily.

COVER

Silverdome hosts Truckin

Truckin America, the largest and richest of the custom truck and van shows on the International Show Car Association circuit opens Friday February 8, at the Pontiac Silverdome with over 275 gleaming street Vans and pickup trucks, custom cars, diesel rigs and antique trucks. In addition a number of TV stars and celebrities also will be on hand making personal appearances and signing autographs.

The ICAS brings together the biggest collection of one-of-kind trucks by the biggest names in the business. In addition to dozens of entries from Michigan, Ohio and Ontario, truck builders are coming to the Silverdome from New York, Arizona and even California.

Not all the vehicles in Truckin America are individual entries competing for points and awards. Some are professionally built "feature" trucks and vans that are included because they often represent the ultimate in this automotive art called customizing.

This year's feature vehicles include the futuristic van Starship One. A stretched and chopped van equipped with gullwing doors, new rear end quarter panels, and 40 coats of acrylic lacquer in multi colors of blue and orange with hand painted murals that depict various scenes as a tribute to Star Wars. Its valued at over $75,000 and may prove to be the worlds wildest and most beautiful and steel van.

Truckin America also boasts an outstanding celebrity lineup. This years TV personalities include Michael Young, the 27 year old host of ABC-TV's "Kids are People Too" and Peter Barton who plays Shirley Jones oldest son in her new NBC series "Shirley". Also on hand will be the incredible Spiderman. All will be present Spiderman, Captain America, the Thing, throughout Truckin America to meet their fans and sign autographs.

The Truckin America Show opens Friday at 5:00 p.m. and runs until 11:00 p.m. Admission is 4.50 for adults and 1.50 for children 6-12 years. Children under 6 accompanied by an adult will be admitted free.

Last year over 50,000 fans packed into the Pontiac Silverdome between 5 p.m. when the doors opened, until it closed Sunday evening. Truckin America officials said they expect a larger crowd this year to see the unusual Trucks and Vans on display and to meet their favorite TV personalities. BE THERE!

West Point Glee Club to perform at Eastern

The sixty-voice West Point Cadet male Glee Club will perform in concert at Pease Auditorium on the campus of Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti on Friday February 15 at 8 p.m.

The Glee Club's appearance is sponsored by the Friends of the United States Military Academy, a group composed of Academy alumni.

The concert will feature a repertoire not only depicting the history of the Armed Forces but will also include current hit songs, American musical numbers and contemporary ballads. The Glee Club also boasts of a folk singing group—"The Headliners" who will sing folk rock and contemporary hits. Also appearing will be the "Mixed Ensemble". This quartet, composed of both male and female cadets, will present hits from the popular musical "Godspell". The entire presentation will be under the direction of William Cosby.

In the past, the club has performed at Carnegie Hall, the Hollywood Bowl, Disneyland, Disneyworld, Boston Symphony Hall and the New York World's Fair. They have received many invitations to perform abroad, and have shared the spotlight with many famous stars on national television.

The Glee Club is an extra curricular activity of the Military Academy and is supported by non-government funds.

Following the appearance in Ypsilanti the Glee Club will perform in Saginaw on February 16 and in Birmingham and Detroit on February 17.

Tickets for the Ypsilanti performance are $3.00. They may be obtained in advance at Eastern Michigan University, the Ann Arbor or Ypsilanti Chambers of Commerce and Hudson's Briarwood. Tickets may also be purchased at Pease Auditorium the evening of the performance.

Astonishing Neal will present program of ESP and hypnosis

The Astonishing Neal, a unique entertainment phenomenon, returns to Schoolcraft College Friday, February 1, 1980, at 8 p.m. on the upper level of the Waterman Campus Center. Sponsored by the Schoolcraft College Student Programming Special Events Committee, Neal will perform a program of ESP and Hypnosis, "A Close Encounter With the Mind."

Neal has been performing professionally since 1971. He has a degree in clinical psychology from Penn State University and claims he is a "Paramentalist with para-optic vision." His program is entertaining and astonishing to young and old alike. During the evening's entertainment, Neal will demonstrate his para-optic vision, communicate with members in the audience telepathically and he will hypnotize volunteers.

The Astonishing Neal's para-normal feats include driving a car 100 mph at the Pocono-Indy 500, after being blindfolded by Chris Economacki of ABC's TV "Wide World of Sports." Neal's performance also includes emitting enough mental electrical energy to explode flashcubes as he did on a Mike Douglas show. Neal has appeared on "To Tell the Truth," "Real People" and a return engagement of "The Best of Real People."

The Astonishing Neal admits he is simply an entertainer but his apparent mastery of clairvoyance, mental telepathy, sightless vision and a phenomenal sense of prediction is clearly worthy of discussion.

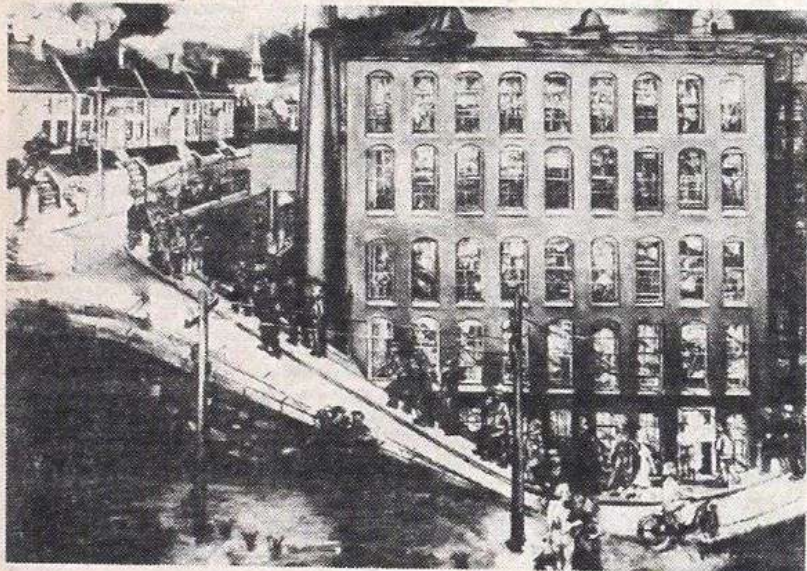

Rev. Leo Lenick, a Catholic high school vice-principal in Reading, PA, is an impressed witness. "Neal gave us some 20-penny nails to inspect. They were straight and not tampered with. Then, as we each held a nail, he only put his hand over ours and the nails bent."

Neal performed the same feat at Schoolcraft on November 10, 1978, and convinced many disbelievers. New fans may again be discovered for Neal after he tells Schoolcraft students what they are thinking at the February 1 show.

Tickets for the Astonishing Neal performance are available at the Student Activities Office in the Waterman Campus Center on the lower level. Tickets for Schoolcraft College students, faculty, staff, and senior citizens with valid ID are only $1.50 (in advance, limit two); general public and all door sales are $2.50. For further information, phone 591-6400, Ext. 380.

Historical Museum hosts 'American' display

"The Working American", a nationally-renowned art exhibition depicting America's working class, opened in Detroit at the Detroit Historical Museum on Thursday, January 17, 1980.

Its appearance here inaugurates a year-long six-city tour, coordinated by the Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition Service. The exhibition was initially organized by District 1199 of the National Union of Hospital and Health Care Employees as part of its "Bread and Roses" cultural program. Its premier was in New York City last October.

Composed of thirty-two paintings by American artists and dating from the 1840's to the 1940's, the exhibit depicts American men, women and children earning their livelihoods.

As straightforward as that theme might seem, it is noteworthy that this is the first major exhibition devoted exclusively to the theme of labor in art, according to Robert Kothe, the Curator of Industrial History at the Detroit Historical Museum.

The show presents a balanced representation of farming, heavy industry, women's and children's work, skilled crafts and regionally specialized labor such as logging and fishing. And some, notably Robert Koehler's "The Strike" (1886), suggest the setting and social context of working Americans.

The paintings are assembled from twenty public and private collections, including the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Art, the Whitney Museum of American Art, and the Hirshhorn Museum and Sculpture Garden. Among the artists included are Robert Street, William Hahn, Charles E. Weir, Charles Curran, Moses Soyer, Philip Evergood, Jacob Lawrence, John Sloan, Everett Shinn, N.C. Wyeth, and Maynard Dixon. A catalogue of the exhibit is available for purchase.

"The Working American" will continue on display at the Detroit Historical Museum until Sunday, February 24, 1980. The Museum, located at Woodward and Kirby in the Cultural Center, is open from 9:30 to 5:00 Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday; 1:00 to 9:00 on Wednesdays and 1:00 to 5:00 on Sundays. The telephone number for further information is 833-1805.

Attic Theatre extends 'Dream'

Lavinia Moyer, Artistic Director of the Attic Theatre, has announced that the Company's production of A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM will be extended through February 24.

THE OLDEST LIVING GRADUATE, originally scheduled as the next production, has been cancelled. Performances of A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM are Thursday, Friday and Sunday at 8 p.m. and Saturday at 6 and 9 p.m. For reservations and ticket information, phone 963-7789.

Also announced is the extension of the Attic's "Family Day" bonus. Through the run of A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM, children of all ages will be able to enjoy the faeries, star-crossed lovers and enchanted forest of Shakespeare's most delightful comedy, for the special price of $1 each, when accompanied by their parents who pay the regular ticket price of $6. The offer is good for the Saturday, 6 p.m. performance, only, through February 23.

Mrs. Moyer explained that one of the reasons for the extension of A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM is the show's gain in popularity, as increased attendance proves.

"Even more important, though, in terms of the evolution of our Acting Company, the extension will allow us to keep the momentum that 'Dream' has built. Many of the cast members of 'Dream' will start combat workshops this week in preparation for our next production, BLOODY BESS. Working this closely for several months develops a rapport that is very evident onstage," she said.

Martin LaPlatney, who will be the instructor of the stage combat workshops, will also direct the Attic's production of the swash-buckling pirate tale, BLOODY BESS, scheduled for March 7 through April 26.

For information regarding Attic Theatre programs, write: 525 E. Lafayette, Detroit, Michigan 48226, or phone 963-7750.

Players stage 'Father'

Henry Ford Museum Theater and the Greenfield Village Players begin their 1980 season with a production of "Life With Father," the longest running play in the history of the New York theater.

The hit comedy offers an engaging look at the life and times of Clarence Day, Sr., a staunch Victorian patriarch, who usually maintains order and stability in his family on New York's Madison Avenue in the 1880s.

Performances of "Life With Father," will be given in the Henry Ford Museum Theater at 8:30 p.m. every Friday and Saturday from February 1 through March 8. Tickets are available at $3.50 each.

Season tickets are available for all four plays, which include "State of the Union," a 1946 Pulitzer Prize winning comedy in June, "Needles and Pins," an 1880s farce offered in August, and the 1926 comedy-thriller, "The Ghost Train," which wraps up the season in October and November. Season tickets for the four plays are $10.50.

HOROSCOPE
by Aboué

ARIES March 21-April 20
Don't overextend yourself socially this week. Make only those appointments and obligations that you know you can meet! What you may think of as boring, may turn around.

TAURUS April 21-May 21
You have a decision to make and a problem to solve with it, don't rush yourself. Take the time you need to find the source of the influence and then act on it!

GEMINI May 22-June 21
You're in a good period now to experiment with new activities and recreations. Don't take anything so seriously that you can't see the lighter side of it. Relax and enjoy your free time.

CANCER June 22-July 23
Afraid to make the move you've been thinking about and have gone over it several times? This attitude gets you nowhere! Try it, you really have nothing to lose and everything to gain.

LEO July 24-August 23
You've been going through an emotional period for about the past month, but it's over now. Learn about the new strengths you've gained and forget it beyond that!

VIRGO August 24-Sept. 23
You are presented with a new "scene" or atmosphere. don't hesitate to fit in! Trying on new things isn't easy for you, but in this case, this week, you fit in most comfortably.

LIBRA Sept. 24-Oct. 23
Romance is highlighted this week, and you can shine if you have a mind to! Give it your best and reap the rewards of an effort well made! Seek advice and assistance.

SCORPIO Oct. 24-Nov. 22
This week is highlighted for you on every other day! Don't expect a lot of action all the time, deal with it appropriately when it happens. A new love is possible, be open for it!

SAGITTARIUS Nov. 23-Dec. 21
Being understanding doesn't mean being put out of your way to satisfy another! Don't be taken advantage of this week. Lend an ear, don't sign away your life.

CAPRICORN Dec. 22-Jan. 20
Don't question everyone's motive for being supportive and helpful since you do get a lot of aid this week and proof of friendship. Accept it for what it is and be grateful.

AQUARIUS Jan 21-Feb. 19
Don't push yourself business-wise regardless of your personal expectations of yourself! You tend to expect too much, others are happy with your efforts and output, take it easy.

PISCES Feb. 20-March 20
An obligation you've made is quite different than you expected. Rather than threatened, you're welcomed, rather than asked, you're offered. Accept invitations, relax and be yourself.

SOAP OPERA WEEK

CBS cans 28-year-old soap, 'Love of Life'

By NANCY M. REICHARDT
NEW YORK — The end of January marked the end of CBS's 28-year-old show, "Love of Life." The decision was officially announced on Jan. 6 that it was curtains for "LOL."

The reason given was that the show just wasn't garnering enough revenue for the network ("LOL" was the last CBS-owned soap opera). But word within daytime circles also indicated that "LOL" could well have been dropped to provide the extra half-hour needed to expand "The Young and the Restless" to an hour. Whatever the reason for the demise of "LOL," the show will be sorely missed by its many long-time fans.

Speaking of "The Young and the Restless," by the time you've seen this column you will undoubtedly be seeing a new actress in the role of Jill Brooks. As the show got into the swing of the hour version, actress Brenda Dickson opted not to renew her contract. Rumor has it that popular lady's man, David Hasselhoff, could be the next cast member to exit.

Andy Weyman (real life husband of Terry Davis who plays April Scott on "Edge of Night") is scouting locations in the sunny clime of St. Croix as part of his new job as a director on "Another World." The show will feature location shootings beginning in mid-February that are sure to spark viewer interest in at least three storylines.

While Ben McFarren was absent from "Guiding Light," actor Stephen Yates was in the Canary Islands on a holiday that included being part of a crew on a 42-foot ketch that sailed to Barbados.

Larry Fleischman, who created the role of Benny Sago on "All My Children," is stepping out of the part that he portrayed for more than two years. Vasili Bogazianos (ex-Mickey Dials on "Edge of Night") takes over as Benny.

IN FOCUS

Alcohol no substitute is special's theme

Scott Baio is a family man. That is, the young television and film actor believes in a close and loving family relationship such as he shares with his mother and father, Rose and Mario, and his older brother and sister, Steven and Stephanie, who are twins.

Baio's homelife is the anthesis of the role he portrays as teen-age alcoholic Buff Saunders in "The Boy Who Drank Too Much," a story about friendship and loyalty played against the stark facts of teen-age alcoholism, to be broadcast Wednesday, Feb. 6, on CBS.

Lance Kerwin, Ed Lauter and Marielore Costello also star, and Don Murray is the special guest-star in the drama, sponsored by the Xerox Corporation.

Baio portrays a 16-year-old high school ice-hockey standout who lives an isolated existence with his alcoholic father. Lacking a strong self-image fostered by feelings of self-consciousness and his father's failure to provide guidance, the teen-ager finds solace in alcohol. He begins to drink so heavily that his very life is threatened.

Explained Baio: "Buff's father, who is played by Don Murray, is an alcoholic, too. They've moved around a lot, and Buff has a hard time making friends. There isn't anyone he can talk to about his problems. Alcohol is a substitute for what he's lacking."

Baio, who portrayed Chachi on the series "Happy Days" and starred in the feature film "Skatetown, U.S.A.," considers himself fortunate because he doesn't need substitutes.

"My family gave me a wonderful set of values and a lot of love," he said, adding, "If I have some problems and can't work them out for myself I talk them over with my family. Somebody is always around."

Scott Baio

Baio is originally from New York. For a variety of reasons, including his career, the family voted on the plan, then decided to move to Los Angeles.

"We all sat down and discussed the pros and cons," recalled Baio. "Every family member had his say. We took a vote, and here we are. I don't think Buff ever shared in anything like that."

In preparation for his role as a teen-age alcoholic, Baio, who was a high school honor student, recalled earlier years in New York. "I remember young guys hanging out on street corners, drunk and appearing to have a good time. I was much younger then, and used to watch them and laugh."

Those recollections proved valuable for the bright, 18-year-old actor. "While preparing for this role," he said, "I thought about how those guys acted before, and then after, they became drunk - only this time I didn't laugh."

WEDNESDAY

Lance Kerwin, Scott Baio and Ed Lauter star in the dramatic special, "The Boy Who Drank Too Much," Wednesday, Feb. 6, on CBS. Baio portrays a high school hockey player who becomes an alcoholic.

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By VAL CAREW

TRIVIA TIME — I have a good memory for trivia, although I don't always remember what I did yesterday. Anyway, I swear that a long time ago on TV there was a show with a character named James Bond. Can you find out anything about this for me? — Jack George, Lubbock, Texas

You've got a good memory. In 1954, which is now one year over a quarter of a century ago, there was an episode of "Climax" featuring a story called "Casino Royale," which was based on Ian Fleming's James Bond book. Barry Nelson played the chap. Incidentally, a book called "The Complete Unabridged Super Trivia Encyclopedia," by Fred L. Worth, says that Fleming's idea of how Bond looked was Hoagy Carmichael. He also got the character name from the author of one of his favorite books called "Birds of the West Indies."

PROTEST MAIL — I think "Battlestar Galactica" is the best show and I want to write the producers. It didn't do too well because it was pre-empted so much that fans never knew when it was going to be on. — T.S., Avon, Conn.

According to producer Glen Larsen (address: Universal Studios, Universal City, CA 91608), the network admitted it was badly scheduled. A new film is being made, which has the ship returning to Earth. It takes place years after the earlier series and will be recast. I don't know how well that will sit with the many fans of Richard Hatch and Dirk Benedict, who write me about their heroes all the time. To say nothing of Lorne Greene.

BEAUTIFUL WORDS — In the movie "Better Late Than Never" a poem was recited in the burial scene. Where can I get a copy? — Mrs. N. Sisson, Girard, Pa.

Right here. It goes: Do not stand at my grave and weep:

You play the leading role in our fight against support birth defects MARCH OF DIMES

I am not there, I do not sleep.

I am a thousand winds that blow.

I am the diamond's glint on snow.

I am the sunlight on ripened grain.

I am the gentle autumn's rain.

When you awaken in the morning's hush,

I am the swift uplifting rush

Of quiet birds in circled flight.

I am the soft stars that shine at night.

Do not stand at my grave and cry:

I am not there. I did not die.

Kalamazoo College hosts 1980 Bach Festival

The 34th annual Bach Festival will be held from March 1 to 8 on the Kalamazoo College campus. The Bach Festival is a major American festival dedicated to the genius of Johann Sebastian Bach. According to Festival Musical Director and Conductor Dr. Russell A. Hammar, Bach Fest '80 also will continue performing music composed by other members of the prolific Bach family, including in this season's program a cantata by Bach's cousin J. Ludwig Bach.

Preceding Bach Fest '80, the 15th annual Young Artists' Auditions will be held on Saturday, January 26, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. in Stetson Chapel. The auditions are open to the public with no admission charge. Outstanding musicians from Michigan high schools and colleges were selected to compete in these live auditions after advance screening. One of this year's finalists is Craig Symons, 17, of Wayne. Symons, son of Robert and Thelma Symons of Winifred St., is currently studying organ at the Interlochen Arts Academy.

Three judges from Illinois will select the winners who will appear in the first of this year's Festival presentations, the Young Artists' Concert on Saturday, March 1, at 8 p.m. in Stetson Chapel.

Another Festival highlight, the Chamber Music Concert, will be presented on Sunday, March 2, at 4 p.m. in Stetson Chapel. A week-long series of free concerts will be given at noon in the lobby of the Light Find Arts Building from March 3 to 7. This season's major work will be J.S.

Bach's "Mass in B-Minor." The composition will be presented in two parts at 5 and 8:15 p.m. on Saturday, March 8 in Stetson Chapel. The traditional Intermission

Dinner will again be held in Welles Hall at 6:30 p.m. For further information and tickets, call the Bach Festival Office at 616-349-2948. The office, which is located in room 210 of the Kalamazoo College Light Fine Arts Building, will be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 9 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturdays.
